Southwest Hit By Twisters, Rain And Hail

Damage Heavy,
But No Loss
Of Life Reported

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Violent spring storms laced the Southwestern Plains with wind, heavy rain and hail today while a wintry chill lingering over the Rockies scattered snow from New Mexico into Colorado.

Tornadoes or funnel clouds spun out of heavy thunderstorms over half a dozen states throughout Monday and well into the night. Portions of West Texas and adjacent New Mexico remained under a severe weather watch much of the night.

Damage in most cases was limited to downed trees and power lines, and there were no reports of injuries from the twisters, which often failed to touch ground.

Police in the east-central New Mexico city of Clovis reported 13 funnel clouds had churned through the area by mid-evening Monday. Although Clovis escaped any serious damage, nearby Portales was less fortunate.

Several house trailers and campers were overturned, trees were snapped off and utility lines in and around Portales were torn down in the rash of twisters.

The tornadoes swirled through the area around Midland, Tex., and hail also pelted the countryside. Little wind damage was reported, however. Tornadoes also were sighted in open country in east-central and southwestern Kansas, Nebraska, southwestern Louisiana and Colorado.

One- to two-inch downpour of rain soaked parts of Texas and much of Louisiana. The widespread thunderstorm activity ranged from New Mexico east to Mississippi and north to Minnesota before dawn.

Travelers' warnings were in effect through the mountains of Colorado due to snow. Up to six inches fell in highland areas near Albuquerque, N.M.

The coldest temperatures also were centered in portions of the Southwest. Flagstaff, Ariz., chilled to 37 before daybreak.

Clear and mild weather favored the eastern third of the nation and the far Northwest.

25th Plane Is Hijacked To Havana

MIAMI (AP)—A gunman and a companion with a shiny knife have carried out the year's 25th airliner hijacking to Cuba.

The sky pirates stayed behind in Havana, but the other 66 passengers and the crew of seven returned to Miami early today after a four-hour stay on the Communist island.

A National Airlines spokesman said the two passengers who did not return identified themselves as "Mr. N. Marion" and Mr. J. Gannon.

The plane was about 20 minutes from a Miami landing Monday night when the hijackers took charge. The gunman grabbed stewardess Nancee E. Nowicki.

"He just told me he wanted to go to Cuba and open the door to the cockpit or he'd kill me," Miss Nowicki said.

The gunman directed pilot Edward Hodgson to head for Havana. The crew was warned not to use the radio or plane intercom system.

The gunman stayed in the pilot's compartment and kept Miss Nowicki with him. The man with the knife stood outside facing the passengers.

Chafee Decides No Pueblo Court Martial

WASHINGTON (AP) — Navy Secretary John H. Chafee said today the court of inquiry into the Pueblo incident recommended general court martial for the intelligence ship's captain, Cmd. Lloyd Bucher, and one of his chief assistants but "I have decided that no disciplinary action will be taken against any of the personnel involved."

Chafee's disclosure came in a six and a half-page report on the exhaustive court of inquiry probe into the ship's takeover by North Korea on Jan. 23, 1968.

In overruling the court's recommendation for court martials of Bucher and Lt. Stephen R. Harris, Chafee said: "They have suffered enough, and further punishment would not be justified."

Harris was the officer in charge of the research detachment aboard the Pueblo, which was conducting an electronic eavesdropping mission off North Korea when she was seized.

Chafee reported these recommendations had been made by the court of inquiry: —That Bucher be tried by general court martial for five alleged offenses including permitting his ship to be searched while he had the power to resist, failing to take protective measures during the attack, complying with North Korean orders to follow them into port, "negligently failing" to destroy all classified material on the ship, and "negligently failing" to see that his crew was fairly skilled in procedures for destroying classified material.

—That Harris be tried by general court martial "for three alleged offenses of dereliction in performance of his duties," mainly dealing with the lack of ability and readiness on the part of the research detachment to be able to destroy all classified materials during an emergency.

—That Lt. Edward R. Murphy Jr., executive officer of the Pueblo, be given a letter of admonition for failing "to organize and lead the crew on the day of the seizure especially in the

U.S. Manpower In Vietnam Stabilizes Near 541,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — American manpower in Vietnam has stabilized at 541,000 the past three months and Pentagon officials say the U.S. troop level probably will never reach the authorized 549,500-man ceiling.

Some officers believe the number of U.S. personnel committed to the war will not exceed 543,000.

The chief reason for the leveling off in manpower, they say, is the progress of the war as viewed from the Pentagon—not any presidential directive to hold back on new deployments.

The U.S. Command in Vietnam handled the North Vietnamese spring offensive well, battlefield casualties are dropping and the South Vietnamese military force is developing under an accelerated training program, military sources say.

As long as the situation does not worsen and there appears to be some progress in the Paris peace talks, they say the manpower level could remain where it is today, aside from minor

Lebanon Plans Guerrilla Curbs

Army Embittered
By 3 Attacks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Angered by three attacks on its men, the Lebanese army says it will crack down on the Palestinian guerrillas in southern Lebanon. But its announcement did not specify whether the "retaliatory measures" would include preventing commando raids across the border into Israel.

One soldier was killed and three army trucks were destroyed in the clashes during the weekend, the army said.

The armed forces "had used patience in dealing with the deteriorating situation in the south," the communiqué continued, "but they are reacting with bitterness to the incidents which are being committed daily with the aim of diverting military efforts concentrated on the front lines facing the enemy."

It said the incidents, "provoked by irresponsible elements," require "the imposition of military deterrent measures for the safety of the army and the maintenance of its morale."

The army blamed Al Saika, a guerrilla group affiliated with Syria's ruling Baath party, for the recent incidents.

It was the first official admission of a widening split between the army and the guerrillas, who want to use Lebanon as a base for raids against Israel. Lebanon is half Christian and half Moslem, and the government has opposed giving the guerrillas free rein, fearing Israel would retaliate with strikes against Lebanon.

weekly fluctuations due to rotation of troops. Between 40,000 and 50,000 replacements a month flow into Vietnam to relieve those completing their normal one-year tour of duty in the war zone.

Officers say all major combat units are now in place in Vietnam.

The 549,500-man ceiling was authorized by President Lyndon B. Johnson in 1968 after the North Vietnamese began their February Tet offensive which shook a rather complacent attitude concerning the war's progress.

The Pentagon's maintenance of a Vietnam force level 6,000 or 7,000 men short of the approved ceiling may be interpreted by some as evidence the Nixon administration will, as has been widely reported, begin withdrawing American units from Vietnam this year.

Officers already are expressing satisfaction at the progress of the South Vietnamese force's training effort.

In one major program, South Vietnamese units are scheduled to take over the battle gear held by 2,500 Americans, allowing deactivation of the U.S. units and reassignment of the individuals.

Voter Interest Up In Primary

Voting at Circleville polling places was reported at noon today to be slightly higher than usual for a primary election.

A total of 686 votes were cast at 17 of the 18 city polling places. There are 5,319 registered voters in the city.

In addition to Circleville, voters were turning out at the polls in Circleville Twp., Washington Twp., North and Wayne Twp., to vote on the school levy.

The township voting places reported slightly below normal voter participation in the election. The school issue is the only item on the ballots in the townships.

A TOTAL of 91 ballots had been cast at three of four township voting places. The fourth poll could not be reached by phone.

There are 1,038 people in the three townships that are eligible to vote on the Circleville City School District levy.

Workers at the polls have reported no trouble with the newly purchased voting machines. Voters appear to be as much interested in the new machines as the election, stated one member of the Pickaway County Board of Elections.

The new machines are expected to provide the election results within about one hour after the polls close at 6:30 p.m.

Area residents interested in the election returns may call The Herald beginning at 6:30 p.m. The numbers to call are 474-3133 and 474-3131.

Following is a precinct rundown of voter turnout about noon today: 1-A, 44; 1-B, 44; 1-C, 44; 1-D, 36; 1-E, 22; 1-F, 63; 1-G, 64; 1-H, 80 1-J, not

Skirmishes Continue In Madison

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Police skirmished with students and hippies for a third consecutive night amid flaming barricades and clouds of tear gas in the heart of Wisconsin's capital city.

Violence continued despite a personal effort by Mayor William Dyke to persuade hippie residents of Mifflin Street, where the trouble started, to stay in their homes.

Quickly thrown-together barricades made of cans of blazing trash remained the favored tactic of hippies and their University of Wisconsin student neighbors from the Mifflin Street area, where many Bohemian types have their homes.

But firefighters said firebombs were used for the first time, and students also snarled traffic on State Street in the central business district.

About a half dozen additional arrests were made, bringing to 110 the total arrested since police broke up a hippie block party last Saturday. Hospitals treated five more persons for injuries or the effect of irritant gas, including a 6-month-old baby exposed to tear gas, making a total of nearly 70. Of these, 18 were policemen.

Rain helped to curb the disorder by 2:30 a.m. today.

U.S. Air Cavalrymen Beat Off Red Attacks

Blood Donors Needed At Friday Visit

Officials of the Pickaway County Red Cross Bloodmobile program have expressed concern over the low number of blood donors at the last two visits of the Bloodmobile to Circleville.

The minimum quota for each visit is 125 pints. The three visits so far this year have brought in a total of 340 pints of blood, which is 35 pints short of the minimum 375 pint quota for the three visits.

In order for Pickaway county to remain eligible to receive full benefits under the blood program, at least 90 per cent of the assigned quotas per quarter must be maintained. Failure to do so can result in curtailment of benefits under the program to Pickaway County residents.

Pickaway County now stands at 90.2 per cent of the assigned quota. This is a dangerously low percentage. Another poor showing at the upcoming visit this Friday, would likely drop the percentage below the 90 per cent mark.

A SUCCESSFUL blood program means, first and most important, that blood will be available for those who need it in critical situations. Precious moments will not be lost obtaining volunteer donors. Secondly, all residents of Pickaway County, whether donors or not, will be able to receive American Red Cross Blood at virtually all hospitals in the United States.

All residents of Pickaway County are strongly urged to participate in the next bloodmobile visit Friday, May 9, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Community United Methodist Church. The continued success of the blood program depends on the response of Pickaway Countians.

Members of the Bloodmobile Committee are Jack Mader, chairman, Jerry Leist and Don Repp.

South Carolina Marches Planned

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — The Southern Christian Leadership Conference says it will move a Mother's Day civil rights march Sunday from Washington to Charleston, where the SCLC is leading demonstrations for striking Negro hospital workers.

The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, head of the SCLC, also announced plans Monday for a sympathy demonstration Saturday in another large South Carolina city—Greenville, 200 miles to the north—to support the Charleston strikers.

Abernathy said he will lead both marches.

7 Cleveland Area Youths Are Nabbed

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Seven Cleveland area youths were taken into custody early today after a service station robbery at Northfield and an attempted holdup of another station in Akron during the night.

Akron police said the seven were arrested after they threw money and a pistol from their car, which was being followed because its lights were not turned on.

163 School Issues Dominate Primary Election In Ohio

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Scores of school issues before Ohio voters dominated interest in today's primary election.

Some state lawmakers believed the results of balloting would give an indication of how voters really feel about increased taxes for education.

Voters in 55 Ohio counties were being asked to approve more money for schools. Proposed operating levies were being decided in 117 school districts while 46 districts had bond issues on the ballot.

The results could serve as a weathervane for legislators who currently are considering a variety of proposals for producing increased tax revenue for schools.

Many state lawmakers have expressed concern over a so-called taxpayers' revolt—mainly by property owners who want tax reform and other means of financing education.

The special school elections coincide with primary elections in 54 counties to nominate Municipal candidates in the November election. Other cities will hold primaries later in the year.

With no statewide issues or candidates being contested today, the most interest focused in Youngstown, where voters were deciding a hot mayoralty battle.

Former mayor Frank X. Kryzan was making a determined bid to unseat Mayor Anthony B. Flask for the Democratic nomination.

Voters in Columbus were deciding whether to repeal a five-month-old city ordinance allowing 18-year-olds to work as entertainers in bars and nightclubs.

Secretary of State Ted Brown made no prediction on the voter turnout, but said it probably would be lower than the 1,629,408 ballots cast in the last off-year primary in 1967.

Arrest 365 At Alabama State College

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Police in Montgomery, Ala., arrested 365 black students from Alabama State College as they demonstrated outside the State Capitol. Meanwhile, black and Puerto Rican students at City College of New York ended a two-week occupation of half the campus, and the school opens today.

The Alabama students were charged with disobeying a police order to end their demonstration, which had marched to the Capitol to await Gov. Albert Brewer's reply to their demand to fire college President Levi Watkins.

The 2,200-student college has been under fire from students for six weeks, since Watkins fired Alvin Holmes from a job in the school's financial office. Holmes was among those arrested.

The protesters also seek establishment of a black studies program and upgrading of the faculty.

At City College, about 200 black and Puerto Rican students took down their barricades and marched through Harlem, chanting "Power to the People." They left after a court order banning disruptive demonstrations had been read.

College officials said classes would be held for all 29,000 students.

Ohio Northern Sets Communications Plan

ADA, Ohio (AP)—Ohio Northern University's board of trustees has announced a plan to improve communications among trustees, faculty and students.

The presidents of the Faculty Senate and the Student Senate will become liaison representatives to the board with the right to attend board meetings and report actions directly to their own groups. The board also reaffirmed its "support of the principle of fair employment practices without regard to race, religion or ethnic origin."

Fights Erupt Near Border With Cambodia

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese troops struck back today at the massive American air and ground campaign along the Cambodian frontier but failed to overrun an American patrol base in the heaviest attack since the border war flared anew more than two months ago.

Troops of the North Vietnamese 1st Division also made rocket and mortar attacks on two other American bases within a 20-mile radius. The U.S. Command said at least 119 of the enemy were killed and 29 others surrendered.

The American defenders from the 1st Air Cavalry Division reported 13 of their men killed and at least 87 wounded.

In the heaviest attack, about 900 enemy troops stormed out of the bamboo jungles about 2 a.m. behind a mortar barrage and assaulted a patrol base named Carolyn from three sides.

The base in War Zone C, 65 miles northwest of Saigon, was defended by 300 Air Cavalrymen with 12 artillery guns. The North Vietnamese finally fled to the north just before dawn, driven off by the Air Cavalrymen, artillery guns firing at point-blank range, helicopter gunships firing rockets and fighter-bombers.

U.S. spokesmen said 101 North Vietnamese and nine Americans were killed and 62 Americans were wounded. One of the wounded Americans was found in a bunker, lying beneath the bodies of five North Vietnamese.

Twenty-nine other North Vietnamese surrendered. Most were wounded, and they included two officers. Ten more were killed at daylight by Air Force bombers that caught them as they retreated toward Cambodia, a spokesman said.

At the same time, other North Vietnamese troops made a 150-round mortar attack and light ground probe against another patrol base of the 1st Air Cavalry 20 miles to the south. Four air cavalrymen and eight North Vietnamese were reported killed there and 25 air cavalrymen wounded.

The entire 17,000 man air cavalry division has moved into the enemy staging area in the War Zone C, leaping through the jungles from a string of patrol bases. More than 300 B52 bombers have rained 10,000 tons of explosives on enemy bunkers and supply depots in the zone during the past two weeks.

Spinal Meningitis Vaccine Tested At Army Camps

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP) —Army medical researchers have announced a new vaccine to prevent spinal meningitis, a serious disease that periodically erupts at military bases in epidemic proportions.

The vaccine "reduces the transmission of spinal meningitis from person to person" doctors from the Department of Bacterial Diseases at Walter Reed Army Hospital's Institute of Research in Washington reported Monday to the American Society of Clinical Investigation meeting here.

Dr. Emil C. Gotschlich, who headed the discovery team, said the vaccine is "quite a way" from public use and still is in the experimental stages at army camps.

1969 Pulitzer Prize Winners Announced

NEW YORK (AP) — For the third time in 27 years the Los Angeles Times has won a Pulitzer Prize for public service.

The 1969 award, announced Monday, was for an expose of corruption which led to a shake-up of the Los Angeles city government and three convictions for bribery.

William Tuohy, 43, a Times correspondent, won the prize in international reporting for combat coverage in Vietnam—bringing the newspaper's total of Pulitzers through the years to seven, including three since 1966.

The prize for news photography went to Edward T. Adams, 35, of The Associated Press for his picture of Brig. Gen. Nguyen Ngoc Loan, the South Vietnamese national police chief, shooting a Viet Cong captive in the head with a pistol. It was the 23rd Pulitzer Prize for Associated Press staffers.

The fiction prize was won by N. Scott Momaday, 35, a Kiowa

Indian, for his book "House Made of Dawn." Momaday is the first known member of his race to win a Pulitzer.

Playwright Howard Sackler, 39, won the drama prize for his Broadway play "The Great White Hope," based on the life of one-time heavyweight boxing champion Jack Johnson.

Norman Mailer, previously best known for his novel "The Naked and the Dead," shared honors in the general nonfiction category with Dr. Rene Jules

Dubos, Rockefeller University microbiologist. Mailer was honored for "The Armies of the Night" and Dubos for "So Human an Animal."

All individual winners, including co-winners, receive $1,000 apiece. The Los Angeles Times award is a gold medal.

Pulitzer winners are selected by the trustees of Columbia University with the help of an advisory board. The annual prizes, first awarded in 1917, were established in the will of Joseph Pulitzer, founder of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and later publisher of the New York World.

Journalism winners for 1969 included: Local reporting—John Fetterman, 49, of the Louisville (Ky.) Times and Courier-Journal, for the story of the return of a Vietnam veteran's body to Hindman, Ky.

Officials of the Pickaway County Red Cross Bloodmobile program have expressed concern over the low number of blood donors at the last two visits of the Bloodmobile to Circleville.

The minimum quota for each visit is 125 pints. The three visits so far this year have brought in a total of 340 pints of blood, which is 35 pints short of the minimum 375 pint quota for the three visits.

In order for Pickaway county to remain eligible to receive full benefits under the blood program, at least 90 per cent of the assigned quotas per quarter must be maintained. Failure to do so can result in curtailment of benefits under the program to Pickaway County residents.

Pickaway County now stands at 90.2 per cent of the assigned quota. This is a dangerously low percentage. Another poor showing at the upcoming visit this Friday, would likely drop the percentage below the 90 per cent mark.

A SUCCESSFUL blood program means, first and most important, that blood will be available for those who need it in critical situations. Precious moments will not be lost obtaining volunteer donors. Secondly, all residents of Pickaway County, whether donors or not, will be able to receive American Red Cross Blood at virtually all hospitals in the United States.

All residents of Pickaway County are strongly urged to participate in the next bloodmobile visit Friday, May 9, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Community United Methodist Church. The continued success of the blood program depends on the response of Pickaway County residents.

Members of the Bloodmobile Committee are Jack Mader, chairman, Jerry Leist and Don Repp.

South Carolina Marches Planned

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)—The Southern Christian Leadership Conference says it will move a Mother's Day civil rights march Sunday from Washington to Charleston, where the SCLC is leading demonstrations for striking Negro hospital workers.

The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, head of the SCLC, also announced plans Monday for a sympathy demonstration Saturday in another large South Carolina city—Greenville, 200 miles to the north—to support the Charleston strikers.

Abernathy said he will lead both marches.

7 Cleveland Area Youths Are Nabbed

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Seven Cleveland area youths were taken into custody early today after a service station robbery at Northfield and an attempted holdup of another station in Akron during the night.

Akron police said the seven were arrested after they threw money and a pistol from their car, which was being followed because its lights were not turned on.

163 School Issues Dominate Primary Election In Ohio

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Scores of school issues before Ohio voters dominated interest in today's primary election.

Some state lawmakers believed the results of balloting would give an indication of how voters really feel about increased taxes for education.

Voters in 55 Ohio counties were being asked to approve more money for schools. Proposed operating levies were being decided in 117 school districts while 46 districts had bond issues on the ballot.

The results could serve as a weather vane for legislators who currently are considering a variety of proposals for producing increased tax revenue for schools.

Many state lawmakers have expressed concern over a so-called taxpayers' revolt—mainly by property owners who want tax reform and other means of financing education.

The special school elections coincide with primary elections in 54 counties to nominate Municipal candidates in the November election. Other cities will hold primaries later in the year.

With no statewide issues or candidates being contested today, the most interest focused in Youngstown, where voters were deciding a hot mayoralty battle.

Former mayor Frank X. Kryzan was making a determined bid to unseat Mayor Anthony B. Flask for the Democratic nomination.

Voters in Columbus were deciding whether to repeal a five-month-old city ordinance allowing 18-year-olds to work as entertainers in bars and nightclubs.

Secretary of State Ted Brown made no prediction on the voter turnout, but said it probably would be lower than the 1,629,408 ballots cast in the last off-year primary in 1967.

Arrest 365 At Alabama State College

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Police in Montgomery, Ala., arrested 365 black students from Alabama State College as they demonstrated outside the State Capitol. Meanwhile, black and Puerto Rican students at City College of New York ended a two-week occupation of half the campus, and the school opens today.

The Alabama students were charged with disobeying a police order to end their demonstration, which had marched to the Capitol to await Gov. Albert Brewer's reply to their demand to fire college President Levi Watkins.

The 2,200-student college has been under fire from students for six weeks, since Watkins fired Alvin Holmes from a job in the school's financial office. Holmes was among those arrested.

The protesters also seek establishment of a black studies program and upgrading of the faculty.

At City College, about 200 black and Puerto Rican students took down their barricades and marched through Harlem, chanting "Power to the People." They left after a court order barring disruptive demonstrations had been read.

College officials said classes would be held for all 20,000 students.

Ohio Northern Sets Communications Plan

ADA, Ohio (AP)—Ohio Northern University's board of trustees has announced a plan to improve communications among trustees, faculty and students.

The presidents of the Faculty Senate and the Student Senate will become liaison representatives to the board with the right to attend board meetings and report actions directly to their own groups. The board also reaffirmed its "support of the principle of fair employment practices without regard to race, religion or ethnic origin."

Fights Erupt Near Border With Cambodia

SAIGON (AP)—North Vietnamese troops struck back today at the massive American air and ground campaign along the Cambodian frontier but failed to overrun an American patrol base in the heaviest attack since the border war flared anew more than two months ago.

Troops of the North Vietnamese 1st Division also made rocket and mortar attacks on two other American bases within a 20-mile radius. The U.S. Command said at least 119 of the enemy were killed and 29 others surrendered.

The American defenders from the 1st Air Cavalry Division reported 13 of their men killed and at least 87 wounded.

In the heaviest attack, about 900 enemy troops stormed out of the bamboo jungles about 2 a.m. behind a mortar barrage and assaulted a patrol base named Carolyn from three sides.

The base in War Zone C, 65 miles northwest of Saigon, was defended by 300 Air Cavalrymen with 12 artillery guns. The North Vietnamese finally fled to the north just before dawn, driven off by the Air Cavalrymen, artillery guns firing at point-blank range, helicopter gunships firing rockets and fighter-bombers.

U.S. spokesmen said 101 North Vietnamese and nine Americans were killed and 62 Americans were wounded. One of the wounded Americans was found in a bunker, lying beneath the bodies of five North Vietnamese.

Twenty-nine other North Vietnamese surrendered. Most were wounded, and they included two officers. Ten more were killed at daylight by Air Force bombers that caught them as they retreated toward Cambodia, a spokesman said.

At the same time, other North Vietnamese troops made a 150-round mortar attack and light ground probe against another patrol base of the 1st Air Cavalry 20 miles to the south. Four air cavalrymen and eight North Vietnamese were reported killed there and 25 air cavalrymen wounded.

The entire 17,000 man air cavalry division has moved into the enemy staging area in the War Zone C, leaping through the jungles from a string of patrol bases. More than 300 B52 bombers have rained 10,000 tons of explosives on enemy bunkers and supply depots in the zone during the past two weeks.

Spinal Meningitis Vaccine Tested At Army Camps

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Army medical researchers have announced a new vaccine to prevent spinal meningitis, a serious disease that periodically erupts at military bases in epidemic proportions.

The vaccine "reduces the transmission of spinal meningitis from person to person" doctors from the Department of Bacterial Diseases at Walter Reed Army Hospital's Institute of Research in Washington reported Monday to the American Society of Clinical Investigation meeting here.

Dr. Emil C. Gotschlich, who headed the discovery team, said the vaccine is "quite a way" from public use and still is in the experimental stages at army camps.

1969 Pulitzer Prize Winners Announced

NEW YORK (AP)—For the third time in 27 years the Los Angeles Times has won a Pulitzer Prize for public service.

The 1969 award, announced Monday, was for an expose of corruption which led to a shake-up of the Los Angeles city government and three convictions for bribery.

William Tuohy, 43, a Times correspondent, won the prize in international reporting for combat coverage in Vietnam—bringing the newspaper's total of Pulitzers through the years to seven, including three since 1968.

The prize for news photography went to Edward T. Adams, 35, of The Associated Press for his picture of Brig. Gen. Nguyen Ngoc Loan, the South Vietnamese national police chief, shooting a Viet Cong captive in the head with a pistol. It was the 23rd Pulitzer Prize for Associated Press staffers.

The fiction prize was won by N. Scott Momaday, 35, a Kiowa

Indian, for his book "House Made of Dawn." Momaday is the first known member of his race to win a Pulitzer.

Playwright Howard Sackler, 39, won the drama prize for his Broadway play "The Great White Hope," based on the life of one-time heavyweight boxing champion Jack Johnson.

Norman Mailer, previously best known for his novel "The Naked and the Dead," shared honors in the general nonfiction category with Dr. Rene Jules

Dubos, Rockefeller University microbiologist. Mailer was honored for "The Armies of the Night" and Dubos for "So Human an Animal."

All individual winners, including co-winners, receive $1,000 apiece. The Los Angeles Times award is a gold medal.

Pulitzer winners are selected by the trustees of Columbia University with the help of an advisory board. The annual prizes, first awarded in 1917, were established in the will of Joseph Pulitzer, founder of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and later publisher of the New York World.

Journalism winners for 1969 included:

Local reporting—John Fetterman, 49, of the Louisville (Ky.) Times and Courier-Journal, for the story of the return of a Vietnam veteran's body to Hindman, Ky.

Meat Costs Continue Rise Despite Abundant Livestock

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says the rising cost of meat, a major factor in the unexpected jump in this year's food prices, comes at a time when there are abundant supplies of livestock.

"The strength in livestock and meat prices in the face of larger supplies is due to rising consumer incomes, unusually low unemployment rates and increases in population," the department said Monday.

Officials indicated, in effect, that higher prices on both the wholesale and retail level, are the result of more people willing to pay more money to eat more beef.

Department officials indicated last week that previous estimates of a 2 to 2.5 per cent rise in food costs this year were too low and the figure more likely will be about 3 per cent.

A report on the food outlook is scheduled for release by the department Thursday.

Cattle prices have set the pace for the increasing cost of livestock, already at a 17-year-high, Agriculture economists said, and are expected to continue running "well above" a year ago.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said the retail price of sirloin steak in March averaged $1.23 a pound nationally, the highest since 1901 records were started in 1900. A year ago sirloin cost $1.13 a pound.

Chuck roast in March cost 66 cents a pound, compared with 63 cents a year earlier. The high was 76 cents a pound in December 1951, a period of record cattle prices.

Hamburger averaged 58 cents a pound in March, compared with 55 cents a year earlier and the top of 67 cents in April 1951.

The rising cost of food is only part of the reason for the inflation that is worrying the government. The latest figures for the Consumer Price Index, including food as well as other items, showed a jump of eight-tenths of one per cent for March, the steepest monthly rise in 18 years.

Charles Huffer, 49, of 478 E. Ohio St., was charged with two counts of intoxication. He entered a plea of guilty to the one charge and was fined $50 plus costs. On the second charge he forfeited a $24 bond.

George Keaton, 22, of 121 Fairview Ave., charged with speeding 50 miles per hour in a 35 mile zone, entered a plea of guilty and was fined $15 plus costs.

Jerry Riegel, 19, Route 1, Amanda, forfeited a $24 bond set on a charge of making unnecessary noise.

James Kirk, 19, Route 1, Ashville, forfeited a $19 bond set on a charge of making unnecessary noise with his car. This was his second offense in one year.

Robert Reynolds, 77, of 148 W. High St., forfeited a $24 bond set on a charge of being intoxicated.

The court collected $170 in fines costs and bond forfeitures from 38 out-of-county motorists.

Resisting, Threatening Case Tops Municipal Court Docket

A Circleville man charged with being intoxicated, resisting arrest and threatening an officer topped the Monday docket of Municipal Court.

Charles Hamilton, 31, American Hotel, was charged with being drunk while in the hotel lobby. The defendant then allegedly resisted arrest and threatened City Patrolman Leonard Sines.

Hamilton entered pleas of no contest to all the charges.

Judge Sterling Lamb sentenced Hamilton to 60 days in jail and fined him $100 plus costs for threatening an officer. The court then suspended $50 of the fine and the jail sentence and placed him on probation for one year.

A fine of $25 plus costs was imposed on the other two counts.

Sherry Boyer, 18, Route 3, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of speeding 52 miles per hour in a 35 mile zone. She was fined $20 plus costs.

Michael Leach, 20, of 227 Third St., entered a plea of guilty to a charge of speeding 43 miles per hour in a 35 mile zone. He was fined $10 plus costs.

Ruth Neff, 38, Ashville, charged with speeding 44 miles per hour in a 35 mile zone, entered a plea of guilty and was fined $10 plus costs.

Mae Godby, 48, of 412 E. Main St., received a suspended $20 fine set on a charge of speeding 52 miles per hour in a 35 mile zone. She had entered a plea of guilty to the charge.

Safeguard ABM System Cost Rises To $8 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Safeguard missile defense system will cost another $1.2 billion, the Defense Department says, bringing the total cost for initial, limited deployment to nearly $8 billion.

In the most detailed analysis given Congress so far, Deputy Secretary of Defense David R. Packard gave a figure of $6.6 billion for the complete system intended to protect two Minuteman missile bases in North Dakota and Montana.

But spokesmen for the Pentagon and the Atomic Energy Commission confirmed Monday that the cost of nuclear warheads for the defense missiles—$1.2 billion—was not included in the Defense Department estimate.

A Defense Department spokesman said the warhead cost was not included because different agencies traditionally provided figures for only their own part of a project.

Meanwhile, Harvard law professor Abram Chayes, who evaluated the ABM for Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, said Monday that Safeguard presents an enigma in that it is the first major weapon, including the H-bomb that cannot be tested.

"The fact is that the first time anyone will know for sure whether the system will work is when it is called upon to meet an actual attack," said Chayes, a former legal adviser to the State Department.

The professor said he believes Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird conjured up the Soviet threat of a nuclear first strike to strengthen the administration's case for Safeguard.

That letters of reprimand be given to Rear Adm. Frank L. Johnson, commander of naval forces in Japan and Capt. Everett B. Gladding, now retired.

The court held that Johnson, who has since moved to a new assignment, was "derelict in the performance of duty" by failing to plan properly for emergency support for the Pueblo in a confrontation and "negligently failing" to verify destruct procedures for classified documents.

Gladding, then director of the naval security group in the Pacific, was held by the court to have been derelict for "failing to develop procedures to insure the readiness" of the Pueblo's research section.

While Chafee praised "the completely objective approach" of the court of inquiry, he noted that Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chief of naval operations, as well as the commander in chief of the U.S. Pacific Fleet both "declined to accept" the panel's recommendations for general court martials of Bucher and Harris.

Said Chafee: "I make no judgment regarding the guilt or innocence of any of the officers of the offenses alleged against them."

He said such a judgement would require further legal proceedings such as trial by court martial.

"I am convinced, however, that neither individual discipline, nor the state of discipline or morale in the Navy, nor any other interest requires further legal proceedings with respect to any personnel involved in the Pueblo incident."

Vending Machine Keys Stolen

Vending machine keys were stolen from a local service station attendant recently, according to the sheriff's department.

Everett Blanton, Route 1, Amanda, an employee of Taylor Service Station on Route 23, Tuesday told Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy Bill Dountz that the keys were stolen from him at the station Saturday.

Blanton explained that he was putting oil into a customer's car when the owner of the car stated that he wanted a bottle of pop. The pop machine was broken so the attendant opened it with his keys.

As soon as the machine was opened, the subject took the keys and ran away, Blanton stated.

The incident is still under investigation by the sheriff's department.

Meat Costs Continue Rise Despite Abundant Livestock

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says the rising cost of meat, a major factor in the unexpected jump in this year's food prices, comes at a time when there are abundant supplies of livestock.

"The strength in livestock and meat prices in the face of larger supplies is due to rising consumer incomes, unusually low unemployment rates and increases in population," the department said Monday.

Department officials indicated last week that previous estimates of a 2 to 2.5 per cent rise in food costs this year were too low and the figure more likely will be about 3 per cent.

A report on the food outlook is scheduled for release by the department Thursday.

Cattle prices have set the pace for the increasing cost of livestock, already at a 17-year-high, Agriculture economists said.

Sheriff Helps At Pike Atomic Plant Strike

Sheriff Dwight Radcliff and three of his deputies traveled to Pike County Monday to help the sheriff there deal with a strike at Goodyear Atomic Energy Plant.

Sheriff Radcliff stated that he received a call for assistance from Fayette County Sheriff Don Thompson. Thompson was acting in behalf of Pike County Sheriff Roy Ross.

The Pike County Sheriff and his one deputy had responded to the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department's call for help during the jail disturbance this fall.

At the order of the Pike County Common Pleas Court the 14 sheriffs and their deputies at the plant forced the strikers to clear a path to the plant to allow salaried employees to report to work.

Assisting Sheriff Radcliff were Deputies Earl Kuhn, Bill Dountz and John Bost.

Safeguard ABM System Cost Rises To $8 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Safeguard missile defense system will cost another $1.2 billion, the Defense Department says, bringing the total cost for initial, limited deployment to nearly $8 billion.

In the most detailed analysis given Congress so far, Deputy Secretary of Defense David R. Packard gave a figure of $6.6 billion for the complete system intended to protect two Minute-man missile bases in North Dakota and Montana.

But spokesmen for the Pentagon and the Atomic Energy Commission confirmed Monday that the cost of nuclear warheads for the defense missiles — $1.2 billion — was not included in the Defense Department estimate.

A Defense Department spokesman said the warhead cost was not included because different agencies traditionally provided figures for only their own part of a project.

Meanwhile, Harvard law professor Abram Chayes, who evaluated the ABM for Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, said Monday that Safeguard presents an enigma in that it is the first major weapon, including the H-bomb that cannot be tested.

"The fact is that the first time anyone will know for sure whether the system will work is when it is called upon to meet an actual attack," said Chayes, a former legal adviser to the State Department.

The professor said he believes Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird conjured up the Soviet threat of a nuclear first strike to strengthen the administration's case for Safeguard.

Vending Machine Keys Stolen

Vending machine keys were stolen from a local service station attendant recently, according to the sheriff's department.

Everett Blanton, Route 1, Amanda, an employee of Taylor Service Station on Route 23, Tuesday told Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy Bill Dountz that the keys were stolen from him at the station Saturday.

Blanton explained that he was putting oil into a customer's car when the owner of the car stated that he wanted a bottle of pop. The pop machine was broken so the attendant opened it with his keys.

As soon as the machine was opened, the subject took the keys and ran away, Blanton stated.

The incident is still under investigation by the sheriff's department.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren
Job Or Husband: That's The Question

DEAR ABBY: Can you help me find a position as live-in housekeeper in a motherless home? It must be a modern home in the most desirable section of the city. (No remote, country or farm locations, please.) The father must be between 40 and 50 no older. And he must be at least 6 feet tall as I am a well-proportioned 5 ft. 8 and do not feel comfortable with shorter men around me.

I am well-dressed, attractive and well-groomed. Enjoy good music, dancing, and outdoor sports. I am 35 years old and in excellent health and can furnish character references.

BOX NO. 322

DEAR BOX NO. 322: You sound as tho you are looking for a man, not a job. If it's a position you're after, register with an employment agency, or place an ad in the classified section of this newspaper. If it's a man you're after, your approach is clever, but much too obvious.

DEAR ABBY: Regarding your reply to the lady who complained because her "Rebecca" was called "Becky."

True, "Rebecca" is a fine old Biblical name, but I'll wager that the Biblical Rebecca was called "Becky," even as Joseph was undoubtedly called "Joe," Peter, "Pete," and I'm sure close friends of Moses called him "Moe."

GEORGE

DEAR GEORGE: If there is any evidence that "nicknames" nicked our Biblical characters, I have yet to come upon it. But I will wager that if there is any, one of my readers will provide me with it quicker than I can say "Abe" for Abraham.

DEAR ABBY: As a welfare mother, I am tired of hearing all welfare mothers judged by a few rotten apples. (Those who sleep with men, booze it up, and have one illegitimate child after another to pick up the welfare check.)

Prior to going on welfare, I worked full time. Then I was advised by my child's doctor to stay home with my child as she was already upset enough by Daddy's sudden disappearance.

Abby, there are many welfare mothers like myself who do not drink and run with men, but stay home and raise their children, because they realize the importance of a mother's guidance during the children's formative years. Guidance which we never had because we ourselves came from broken homes.

Granted there are bad welfare mothers, just as there are bad mothers among the taxpayers. Mothers who spend their days having affairs with other men while their husbands are out working to support them, so perhaps the taxpayers should stop slinging dirt and get the rake going in their own backyards.

And if I am one who is asking your tax dollars, please stop by so I can kiss your feet because it is YOU, the taxpayer, who is making it possible for me to be the kind of mother I always wanted and never had.

Man Found
In Slaying
At Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Donald Eugene Walls, 42, Columbus, sought in the hammer slaying Monday night of a carry-out store clerk was arrested by detectives in a bar early today, police reported.

He was being held in city prison on a warrant charging him with first-degree murder.

Officers said two eyewitnesses to the murder identified Walls from mug shots.

Ted Williams, 64, an invalid with an artificial leg, was found dead behind the store counter. A claw hammer used in the slaying was found in the washroom, police said.

Williams apparently was killed during a holdup. Police said about $200 was taken from the cash register, but another $1,000 hidden in the store was overlooked by the bandit.

Officers said the robber apparently locked the front door to the store before initiating the hold-up. Two prospective customers, finding the door locked, looked in a side window and witnessed the slaying, they said.

Equipment Prices

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A federal court jury Monday found Hobart Manufacturing Co. of Troy, Ohio, and the Bensinger Co. of St. Louis guilty on charges of price fixing.

U. S. District Judge James H. Meredith set May 16 for sentencing. The offense is punishable by a fine up to $50,000.

Bensinger, a restaurant equipment firm, holds the Hobart franchise in the St. Louis area. The two firms were accused of violating the Sherman Anti-Trust Act by fixing prices and rigging bids on dishwashing equipment sold to Trader Vic's Restaurant in the Bel Air East Motor Inn.

The government contended the two concerns presented a collective bid of $10,265 in August 1967 to freeze out another bidder.

dying behind the counter by his brother Wilbur, who owned the store. He was pronounced dead on arrival at the hospital.

week apparently had a major bearing on the suspension Monday of the entire leadership of State Employees Union Council 21.

All of the council's six staff representatives, including executive director Al Bilik, and the seven-member board of trustees, were suspended by the union's parent organization, the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees.

A trusteeship was named to run the union while officials investigate council activities.

Robert Brindza of Cleveland, one of the trustees, gave newsmen these reasons for the action:

"—There have been "accusations and counteraccusations of misuse of funds."

—Staff representatives have been taking opposing positions not in the best interest of Ohio's 22 local units, state employee, Council 21 and the international union.

—Staff representatives are "alleged to have brought about strikes in the penal institutions."

The international executive board has ruled that prison guards do not have the right to strike, Brindza said.

The action came amid reports of dissension among disgruntled rank and file members. Some members, unhappy over the lack of progress in their efforts to obtain a $1,500 pay raise, sought to break away from Bilik's leadership.

Guards at the Mansfield Reformatory reportedly obtained the signatures of 200 members on a petition calling for Bilik's resignation, objecting to how the guards' strike was handled. They said it was not coordinated.

The petitions were to be presented at a meeting today of top officials of the 22 locals. Brindza said the locals also would discuss "unification."

Chromosome
Crime Theory
Is Exploded

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Perhaps 200,000 American males have the "XYY" genetic makeup that is being linked with impulses to commit violent crimes, a psychiatrist said today.

But "there is growing evidence that many XYY individuals are stable, law-abiding citizens," Dr. Gerald R. Clark of Elwyn, Pa., declared. "It appears that the XYY male in general has been falsely stigmatized."

Normally each body cell has 46 chromosomes, the carriers of genes that determine inherited characteristics. They receive an X chromosome from the mother, and a Y from the father. Occasionally, some accident adds an extra Y or X chromosome.

For several years there has been speculation that men with the XYY chromosome were genetically inclined toward aggressive criminal behavior. In courts, defense attorneys have argued that such men were not responsible for their crimes.

Richard Speck, convicted of murdering eight student nurses in Chicago, has the XYY chromosome.

Reporting new studies to the American Psychiatric Association in convention here, Dr. Clark said the frequency with which XYY men are involved in crime and other antisocial behavior "may not be appreciably different from the average citizen."

Dr. Clark is president of the Elwyn Institute, which began a study of the XYY chromosome in 1966. He is also associate professor of psychiatry and pediatrics at the University of Pennsylvania Medical School.

"There have been 'accusations and counteraccusations of misuse of funds.'"

—Staff representatives have been taking opposing positions not in the best interest of Ohio's 22 local units, state employee, Council 21 and the international union.

—Staff representatives are "alleged to have brought about strikes in the penal institutions."

The international executive board has ruled that prison guards do not have the right to strike, Brindza said.

The action came amid reports of dissension among disgruntled rank and file members. Some members, unhappy over the lack of progress in their efforts to obtain a $1,500 pay raise, sought to break away from Bilik's leadership.

Guards at the Mansfield Reformatory reportedly obtained the signatures of 200 members on a petition calling for Bilik's resignation, objecting to how the guards' strike was handled. They said it was not coordinated.

The petitions were to be presented at a meeting today of top officials of the 22 locals. Brindza said the locals also would discuss "unification."

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — In the performance minded world of mutual funds there is a technique that can make a fund's results look rather spectacular. Despite this, the fund industry is split widely on the merits of the technique.

The dispute is about letter stock, a vehicle for investments that a spokesman for the Investment Company Institute, a trade association, states is creating "one of the most serious issues facing the industry today."

It begins somewhat like this: A small company needs capital but doesn't have the time or the funds or the ability to register all the pertinent facts about itself with the Securities and Exchange Commission in Washington.

Such registration generally is a requirement of all corporations wishing to sell their shares to the public. Under the Securities Act of 1933, full and adequate disclosure of the facts should be made in a registration statement.

The purpose of this is to protect the public from fraudulent deals and to see that investors are provided sufficient information to make sound choices.

If a corporation's disclosure is adequate it is permitted to issue shares of its stock to the public, which then trades the shares freely and prices them according to the laws of supply and demand.

But, when a corporation decides it is not feasible to go public via this route it still has a completely legal way of issuing stock and thus raising money. This is through the issuance of letter stock.

Letter stocks are securities issued to sophisticated investors usually at a discount from the prevailing market price. The assumption is that these investors have enough knowledge to appraise the investment situation. Accompanying the agreement to purchase is a letter to be signed by the purchaser stating that the stock is for investment only and will not be traded to the general public.

The advantage to the buyer is that he obtains the stock at a big discount, in some cases up to 50 per cent. The disadvantage is that he cannot sell the stock to the public for at least two and maybe even three years.

This provokes the questions: Should funds purchase letter stock? And if they do, how should they value it when letter stock cannot be sold?

The answers aren't as simple as they appear. Consider, as an illustration, the situation in which the Mates Investment Fund found itself late last year.

Mates purchased 300,000 shares of Omega Equities Corp. letter stock at $3.25 a share. Soon the common stock of the company was soaring in the public marketplace, reaching $33 to $35 a share on Dec. 9.

The Omega letter stock held by Mates really couldn't be traded. That is, even though the common stock was selling at 10 times what Mates had paid for the letter stock, he couldn't take advantage of the situation. He had agreed not to.

Nevertheless, in assessing the value of the Mates Fund, whose price is computed on the basis of the shares it holds, a value had to be assigned to the letter stock. At one point the stock was valued at $15 a share.

Soon, however, the SEC stepped in and halted trading in Omega, accusing some of its officers of violating securities laws. This placed the common stock in the same untradeable category as the letter stock.

Since there was no market price benchmark, and therefore no gauge as to what value might be placed on the letter stock, the Mates Fund couldn't tell what its own shares should sell for. Trading was suspended. Shareholders were locked in.

Trading in Omega resumed April 29 but the common stock on that day dropped to between $4.75 and $5.50. The Mates Fund said it hopes to resume trading of its own shares in about a month.

In being forced to suspend redemptions, the Mates Fund violated one of the covenants of the industry—that a fund should always be ready to sell and redeem its shares.

The questions now puzzling the industry and the SEC are these: Is letter stock a legitimate investment of the funds? Is the public adequately protected?

Dear Editor: Spring is a season of the year that is described in a hundred different ways, depending on each individual's interests and attitudes.

To some, I suppose, it is the thrills of riding in a convertible or to another it is a warm day on the golf course, and to a large majority of women, it is the dreary time for house cleaning.

The following is my own description of spring that is more refreshing each year. I always admire spring from the view of Mother Nature. To me it is God's creative handiwork bursting forth in beauty after months of cold and barren days preparing for this almost sudden outburst of newness.

Being a housewife with two preschoolers, and living on a farm, I have the advantage of living close to nature and sharing the excitement with my children. As my daughter, age 5, and my son, age 2, and I walk lazily down the dusty lane to the mailbox, the dandelions in the fields around us, which are pests to everyone, appear almost beautiful in the warm sunshine. And with smiles of glee my children bring me a large bouquet of these yellow flowers. Well, they might as well be orchids. I couldn't disappoint those loving faces.

Then there is the first born calf. Always a special event in our family. Somehow that first calf always looks the sweetest, cleanest and smells the best. And that first picnic is always a day to remember. We fill the basket with all the goodies we can find and off we go to the farthest end of the farm where the grass is the greenest and the wild flowers are in bloom. As the children run up and down the rolling fields of green, I long for their energy, love of life and hope for the future. I worry for a moment about just what their future holds, and if they will be strong enough to cope with all the problems they must face. Then I think "shame on you" for thinking such unpleasant thoughts on this beautiful spring day. So I lay back to soak in the warm sun with laughter and happiness in the background. On the way back, as my 2 year old son tosses stones in the slow bubbling brook, my daughter spots the first lady bug of the season and our playful dog, Scamper, chases a rabbit around in circles.

Farther up at the barn, we see a racoon watching our every move, probably guarding a hidden nest somewhere. "Daddy will find the babies," my 5 year old squealed with so much confidence I knew Daddy would, somehow.

Well, as the day ends, dinner and baths are over and darkness has ended the fun-filled day. As I tuck my two children into bed and kiss their extra pink noses and cheeks, their prayers are a little special tonight for they have a list of extra things to be thankful for, and a child is always honest, even in their prayers.

So you see, spring is very special to me for lots of reasons. Most of all it is the rebirth of life and freshness, and I think God must have created spring especially for children, and for adults to enjoy and experience through the eyes of a child. Time passes so quickly, and it is so easy to forget the joys of childhood, but I recaptured it, if only for one brief day, but what a beautiful spring day to remember always.

Dear Editor: Take a long look around you. What do you see? If you are one of the fortunate, your eyes may be able to over look the litter, the campus riots, and the youth corruption. Through compassionate eyes you may view beautiful flowers, small children playing or even people attending church.

All through my life I have heard people say the world is full of hate and the younger generation is wild. But if everyone would take time to look on the good side of situations, our living would be so much better.

Children look up to adults. Show them love and show them guidance. Don't refuse them a game of pitch and catch. Don't discourage them a short walk to the library. Don't refuse them a ride in the country. Children are only young once and they need you then, not when they are 18 or 19, not when they are older and in a jam.

Then it is too late to show them the right path to follow. Perhaps you don't have the time, but take the time. There must be time for a family: a small boy in a baseball hat pleading for a catcher. Catch him — catch him before the time slips by.

Take time to love. Take time to see the beauty surrounding you. When you see a bed of flowers take notice of the colors, the form, not the weeds around them. When you read the daily war headlines, turn the pages and read about the Y. M. C. A. work or the development of a new playground.

Take time to love and take time to live. Time flies by so quickly. Look for the blue skies today, not the dark clouds that may appear tomorrow.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A DEAR LITTLE old lady entered a suburban bungalow and found a lad of four in sole possession, playing with the usual replicas of lethal weapons. "You don't know me," beamed the old lady, "but I'm your grandmother—on your father's side." Without looking up from his arsenal, the lad replied, "I'll tell you right now: you're on the wrong side."

A celebrated Parisian doctor named Flambeau once invited novelist Alexandre Dumas to dinner, then asked him to autograph his copy of "The Three Musketeers." "But of course," agreed Dumas, and began his inscription. "Since the famous Dr. Flambeau began practicing medicine in this section of Paris they have demolished the hospital..." "You are too kind," beamed the doctor. Then Dumas added, "...and on its site created a cemetery."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

The word sarcoidosis seems to crop up every once in a while and produces a great deal of anxiety in people terrified by the name itself. This strange and often mysterious disease is named after a Scandinavian doctor, Dr. C. P. M. Boeck first described this condition and differentiated it from cancer and from tuberculosis, both of which it seemed to resemble.

Boeck's sarcoid, as it is known, has a most intriguing affiliation with the pine tree. Someone had found that sarcoidosis is most prevalent in areas of relative impoverishment and malnutrition where homes were built of freshly fallen pine trees. Scientists have investigated the possibility that resins and pine tree extracts used as chewing gum might play a role in the cause of this unusual condition.

A special test, the Kveim test, is used on the skin to determine the presence of this condition. More and more, sarcoidosis is believed to be a group of diseases rather than a single entity. That which positively is known is that it is not a venereal disease and that recovery is usually complete with intensive treatment of cortisone and other medications.

Normal doses of medicines are prescribed by doctors who base their prescription on the age, size and weight of their patient. Children, of course, are not given the same doses of aspirin or antibiotics as those given to adolescents and adults.

Despite the careful regulation of doses, unusual reactions can and do occur, especially when the drug has never been used before. It is for this reason that physicians tell their patients what the drug is meant to accomplish and warn them to stop taking it immediately if any unusual symptoms appear. This is a good general and safe rule. When the doctor is called, he then can evaluate whether or not the drug should be permanently discontinued.

It is surprising how often it is believed that it is the doctor's fault if the patient reacts poorly to a drug. This is not meant to be defensive for physicians. Rather it is meant to emphasize the fact that all well-standardized drugs can be totally ineffective in some people while doing an excellent job in others. Still others may be allergic to perfectly harmless drugs. Often physicians are asked for a "stronger drug" than the one the patient is receiving. The strength and potency of a drug depends only on the amount of its ingredients. A drug must be given a chance to perform its function without the impatient attitude that it must cure the illness immediately or be discontinued.

Contrary to general knowledge and belief, the brain is a hardy organ. Surgeons are always amazed at how well the brain reacts to injury. It can be handled during surgery with remarkable reserve. This is in contrast to the sheer finicky delicacy of the intestines, which react severely to even the gentlest surgical manipulation.

ABM And A Fast Finish

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Washington, D.C. — President Nixon, according to some of his conservative supporters, has manhandled the care and feeding of his Anti-Ballistic Missile cause in the U.S. Senate. But the President, who doesn't like to twist arms, is counting on certain facts to carry him through to a fast finish.

First of all, there is the weight of the intelligence reports: on March 20 Deputy Secretary of Defense David Packard told the Senate Armed Services Committee that the Soviets have already reached parity with us in missile strength. The larger Soviet missiles, said Packard, "became operational in 1966." These are the missiles "on which the Soviets have flown multiple warheads..." This force potentially represents a severe threat to our Minuteman.

The rate of progress in Soviet missile deployment was badly underestimated by the Johnson Administration. Production of the Soviet SS-9 missiles and nuclear submarines, so Nixon has divulged, is sixty per cent greater than was estimated in 1967 when the decision was first made to deploy a Sentinel ABM system. Added to all this, the Soviets have what amounts to an Orbital Bombardment System. Properly deployed, a hundred "fractional" orbital bombs, launched into real orbit, could be in a position to attack the U.S. in a matter of seconds after a button had been pushed in Moscow. Without some protection for a retaliatory strike, the U.S., at some time in the Seventies, could be subjected to intolerable blackmail by the Kremlin.

The theory that a decision to go ahead with an ABM might hurt our chances for negotiating an arms limitation deal with the Soviets just doesn't stand inspection. It was the Soviet's Premier Kossygin who said, at a London press conference in 1967, that "defensive systems which prevent attack are not the cause of the arms race, but constitute a factor preventing the death of people."

Some argue like this: what is cheaper, to have offensive weapons which can destroy towns and whole states or to have defensive weapons which can prevent this destruction. At present the theory is current somewhere that the system which is cheaper should be developed. Such so-called theoreticians argue as to the cost of killing a man — 500,000 dollars or 100,000. Maybe an anti-missile system is more expensive than an offensive system, but it is designed not to kill people but to preserve human lives.

Since this is the Soviet argument, there is no reason Moscow should be miffed if we turn as humanitarian about saving lives as Premier Kossygin himself.

In any event, the Russians do what they want to do whether they are busy "negotiating" or no. After the Cuban missile crisis the argument was heard in Washington that Moscow, having had one unpleasant experience with eyeball-to-eyeball nuclear confrontation, was ready to cut back on dependence on the atomic race. There were confident predictions that the Kremlin would turn its attention to satisfying the Soviet consumer. The Russians, so the post-Cuban theory went, were realists who were ready in the interest of their own standard of living to repudiate the revolutionary jazz about promoting guerrilla Marxism throughout the colonial world. They were too concerned about peace in eastern Europe and about Asia. So the fashionable arguments went.

What actually happened, however, is that the Soviets have paid very little attention to the consumer economy. The U.S. has twice the Gross National Product of the USSR. But the Soviets, with their relatively scarce resources, have nevertheless continued with their missile development. Their generals now boast that they "hold Europe as a hostage" with their medium-range ballistic missiles. They have very large 100-megaton weapons, thoroughly tested in 1961-62, that are ready for long-distance delivery. And they have the Griffon, the Galosh

Nixon Administration. Progress toward Peace: In Paris, in Viet Nam and behind the scenes, the Administration has pressed ahead with its first priority to secure an honorable peace in Southeast Asia.

In the Middle East, the Administration has been exercising "preventive diplomacy" to avert a major crisis in that area. In Europe, President Nixon's trip to five nations helped bring a new unity to the Western Alliance. In relations with the Soviet Union, the Nixon policy of firmness without belligerence has opened channels of communication between the world powers. An excellent example would be Russia assistance, for the first time, in searching for possible surviving crew members of our downed aircraft by North Korea.

Progress to curb inflation: The Nixon Administration has moved to hold down the cost of living by proposing a budget that reduces federal spending by $4 billion.

Progress toward Combating Crime: The Administration has proposed an all-out attack on organized crime — a record budget for the Department of Justice of $61 million. Recommendations for creation of a "Strike Force" to aid local law enforcement agencies, additional Judges to handle the backlog of cases, and authorizing the use of electronic surveillance to combat crime have been proposed.

Progress toward tax reforms: After careful study far-reaching proposals for tax reform legislation are designed to plug tax loopholes for rich foundations and exempt the wage earner who makes less than $3,500 per year. In addition, the President recommended repeal of the surcharge. Progress toward National Security: The President decided, after careful review, that the national security required a modified anti-ballistic missile system to defend the deterrent that defends the peace.

The safeguard system he recommended will protect us against either a deliberate or accidental nuclear war for the next decade.

Progress toward Rebuilding our Cities: A responsible overall approach to our urban problems is underway. The Job Corps and other less than successful projects of the War on Poverty have been transferred and reorganized — to deliver better results for the taxpayers dollar.

Progress toward Responsible Government: Many Departments have been revamped to meet the needs of today: The Manpower Administration in the Department of Labor has been reorganized; a new Minority Business Enterprise Program has been created in the Department of Commerce; and the Office of Child Development has been set up in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Time passes so quickly, and it is so easy to forget the joys of childhood, but I recaptured it, if only for one brief day, but what a beautiful spring day to remember always.

ELIZABETH LITTLE
Route 2, Orient

Dear Editor: Take a long look around you. What do you see? If you are one of the fortunate, your eyes may be able to overlook the litter, the campus riots, and the youth corruption. Through compassionate eyes you may view beautiful flowers, small children playing or even people attending church.

All through my life I have heard people say the world is full of hate and the younger generation is wild. But if everyone would take time to look on the good side of situations, our living would be so much better.

Children look up to adults. Show them love and show them guidance. Don't refuse them a game of pitch and catch. Don't discourage them a short walk to the library. Don't refuse them a ride in the country. Children are only young once and they need you then, not when they are 18 or 19, not when they are older and in a jam.

Then it is too late to show them the right path to follow. Perhaps you don't have the time, but take the time. There must be time for a family; a small boy in a baseball hat pleading for a catcher. Catch him — catch him before the time slips by.

Take time to love. Take time to see the beauty surrounding you. When you see a bed of flowers take notice of the colors, the form, not the weeds around them. When you read the daily war headlines, turn the pages and read about the Y.M.C.A. work or the development of a new playground.

Take time to love and take time to live. Time flies by so quickly. Look for the blue skies today, not the dark clouds that may appear tomorrow.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A DEAR LITTLE old lady entered a suburban bungalow and found a lad of four in sole possession, playing with the usual replicas of lethal weapons. "You don't know me," beamed the old lady, "but I'm your grandmother—on your father's side." Without looking up from his arsenal, the lad replied, "I'll tell you right now: you're on the wrong side."

A celebrated Parisian doctor named Flambeau once invited novelist Alexandre Dumas to dinner, then asked him to autograph his copy of "The Three Musketeers." "But of course," agreed Dumas, and began his inscription. "Since the famous Dr. Flambeau began practicing medicine in this section of Paris they have demolished the hospital..." "You are too kind," beamed the doctor. Then Dumas added, "...and on its site created a cemetery."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

The word sarcoidosis seems to crop up every once in a while and produces a great deal of anxiety in people terrified by the name itself. This strange and often mysterious disease is named after a Scandinavian doctor, Dr. C. P. M. Boeck first described this condition and differentiated it from cancer and from tuberculosis, both of which it seemed to resemble.

Boeck's sarcoid, as it is known, has a most intriguing affiliation with the pine tree. Someone had found that sarcoidosis is most prevalent in areas of relative impoverishment and malnutrition where homes were built of freshly fallen pine trees. Scientists have investigated the possibility that resins and pine tree extracts used as chewing gum might play a role in the cause of this unusual condition.

A special test, the Kveim test, is used on the skin to determine the presence of this condition. More and more, sarcoidosis is believed to be a group of diseases rather than a single entity. That which positively is known is that it is not a venereal disease and that recovery is usually complete with intensive treatment of cortisone and other medications.

Normal doses of medicines are prescribed by doctors who base their prescription on the age, size and weight of their patient. Children, of course, are not given the same doses of aspirin or antibiotics as those given to adolescents and adults.

Despite the careful regulation of doses, unusual reactions can and do occur, especially when the drug has never been used before. It is for this reason that physicians tell their patients what the drug is meant to accomplish and warn them to stop taking it immediately if any unusual symptoms appear. This is a good general and safe rule. When the doctor is called, he then can evaluate whether or not the drug should be permanently discontinued.

It is surprising how often it is believed that it is the doctor's fault if the patient reacts poorly to a drug. This is not meant to be defensive for physicians. Rather it is meant to emphasize the fact that all well-standardized drugs can be totally ineffective in some people while doing an excellent

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Washington, D.C. — President Nixon, according to some of his conservative supporters, has manhandled the care and feeding of his Anti-Ballistic Missile cause in the U.S. Senate. But the President, who doesn't like to twist arms, is counting on certain facts to carry him through to a fast finish.

First of all, there is the weight of the intelligence reports: on March 20 Deputy Secretary of Defense David Packard told the Senate Armed Services Committee that the Soviets have already reached parity with us in missile strength. The larger Soviet missiles, said Packard, "became operational in 1966." These are the missiles "on which the Soviets have flown multiple warheads... This force potentially represents a severe threat to our Minuteman."

The rate of progress in Soviet missile deployment was badly underestimated by the Johnson Administration. Production of the Soviet SS-9 missiles and nuclear submarines, so Nixon has divulged, is sixty per cent greater than was estimated in 1967 when the decision was first made to deploy a Sentinel ABM system. Added to all this, the Soviets have what amounts to an Orbital Bombardment System. Properly deployed, a hundred "fractional" orbital bombs, launched into real orbit, could be in a position to attack the U.S. in a matter of seconds after a button had been pushed in Moscow. Without some protection for a retaliatory strike, the U.S., at some time in the Seventies, could be subjected to intolerable blackmail by the Kremlin.

The theory that a decision to go ahead with an ABM might hurt our chances for negotiating an arms limitation deal with the Soviets just doesn't stand inspection. It was the Soviet's Premier Kosygin who said, at a London press conference in 1967, that "defensive systems which prevent attack are not the cause of the arms race, but constitute a factor preventing the death of people."

Some argue like this: what is cheaper, to have offensive weapons which can destroy towns and whole states or to have defensive weapons which can prevent this destruction. At present the theory is current somewhere that the system which is cheaper should be developed. Such so-called theoreticians argue as to the cost of killing a man — 500,000 dollars or 100,000. Maybe an anti-missile system is more expensive than an offensive system, but it is designed not to kill people but to preserve human lives.

Since this is the Soviet argument, there is no reason Moscow should be miffed if we turn as humanitarian about saving lives as Premier Kosygin himself.

In any event, the Russians do what they want to do whether they are busy "negotiating" or no. After the Cuban missile crisis the argument was heard in Washington that Moscow, having had one unpleasant experience with eyeball-to-eyeball nuclear confrontation, was ready to cut back on dependence on the atomic race. There were confident predictions that the Kremlin would turn its attention to satisfying the Soviet consumer. The Russians, so the post-Cuban theory went, were realists who were ready in the interest of their own standard of living to repudiate the revolutionary jazz about promoting guerrilla Marxism throughout the colonial world. They were too concerned about peace in eastern Europe and about Tuesday with little fanfare, facing the Red Chinese along Admittedly, we all know that 4,000 miles of border in inner Asia. So the fashionable arguments went.

What actually happened, however, is that the Soviets have paid very little attention and the Tallin anti-ballistic missile defense system which they confidently think gives them effective protection against a strike from the U.S. By comparison with the Russians, the U.S. is like a medieval knight armed only with a sword. Our Soviet opponent not only has a sword but a shield, a helmet and an iron breastplate. Since our own Spartan and Sprint anti-ballistic missiles have been successfully flown, where is the responsible Senator who would deny a suit of armor to the U.S. knight?

WASHINGTON MEMO

By Congressman CHALMERS P. WYLIE
15th District of Ohio

Congressman Robert Taft, Chairman of the Republican Research Committee last week appointed me to the Task Force on Urban Affairs.

The Urban Affairs Task Force will consist of sixteen members and has been formed to provide in-depth studies and creative solutions in the areas of housing, model cities, community planning, recreational development, commuter service, street lighting, decentralizing control over the states and local government in urban affairs and employment opportunities.

Although there have been studies and research papers previously compiled, the urban problems with which we are faced are so complex and crucial to the future of our nation that additional work is much needed if we are to meet the needs of the people.

Recommendations and suggestions made by the Task Force will be submitted to President Nixon and his Urban Affairs Council for their consideration and action. I welcome the assignment.

On April 28, the House passed a bill to expand the Canine Corps of the Metropolitan Police Department in the District of Columbia. The use of dogs in urban police work originated in Belgium more than 50 years ago. It has since spread to many other countries. In the United States, more than 40 police departments use dogs in patrol work, and the number of cities using trained dogs is increasing rapidly.

An important new use for dogs is in the control of crime involving the use of drugs. In recent months it has been discovered that dogs have a high degree of acuity in seeking marijuana. If the preliminary experience in this type of police work proves valid, the use of dogs on a major scale may provide a real benefit in breaking up the traffic on marijuana.

In view of the reported increase in the use of drugs in the District of Columbia, particularly among juveniles, the expansion of the Canine Corps trained for detection of this drug could have an important effect on preventing its use and progression to other drug addiction and possible development of hardened criminals. If the Canine Corps works in our Nation's Capitol then it will work in other parts of our country where drug use is increasing at a rapid rate.

Since Franklin D. Roosevelt's first term, it has been traditional to examine the first 100 days of a new President's Administration. The first 100 days of the Nixon Administration passed last Tuesday with little fanfare. Admittedly, we all know that the problems confronting our country cannot be solved in 100 days, but at the same time I think we should take a look-see at the progress forged by the Nixon Administration. Progress toward Peace: In Paris, in Viet Nam and behind the scenes, the Administration has pressed ahead with its first priority to secure an honorable peace in Southeast Asia.

In the Middle East, the Administration has been exercising "preventive diplomacy" to avert a major crisis in that area. In Europe, President Nixon's trip to five nations helped bring a new unity to the Western Alliance. In relations with the Soviet Union, the Nixon policy of firmness without belligerence has opened channels of communication between the world powers. An excellent example would be Russia assistance, for the first time, in searching for possible surviving crew members of our downed aircraft by North Korea.

Progress to curb inflation: The Nixon Administration has moved to hold down the cost of living by proposing a budget that reduces federal spending by $4 billion.

Progress toward Combating Crime: The Administration has proposed an all-out attack on organized crime — a record budget for the Department of Justice of $61 million. Recommendations for creation of a "Strike Force" to aid local law enforcement agencies, additional Judges to handle the backlog of cases, and authorizing the use of electronic surveillance to combat crime have been proposed.

Progress toward tax reforms: After careful study far-reaching proposals for tax reform legislation are designed to plug tax loopholes for rich foundations and exempt the wage earner who makes less than $3,500 per year. In addition, the President recommended repeal of the surcharge.

Progress toward National Security: The President decided, after careful review, that the national security required a modified anti-ballistic missile system to defend the deterrent that defends the peace.

The safeguard system he recommended will protect us against either a deliberate or accidental nuclear war for the next decade.

Progress toward Rebuilding our Cities: A responsible overall approach to our urban problems is underway. The Job Corps and other less than successful projects of the War on Poverty have been transferred and reorganized — to deliver better results for the taxpayers dollar.

Progress toward Responsible Government: Many Departments have been revamped to meet the needs of today: The Manpower Administration in the Department of Labor has been reorganized; a new Minority Business Enterprise Program has been created in the Department of Commerce; and the Office of Child Development has been set up in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Sealy Seeks Nomination For Governor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Former state representative Albert Sealy of Dayton announced his candidacy Monday for the Republican nomination for governor next year.

He is the first to formally announce for the race.

Sealy called a 2 p.m. news conference here to make the announcement released in a news statement earlier in the day.

Sealy, an attorney, directed a months-long bipartisan committee on tax revision while in the legislature.

He said tax reform will be one of his central campaign themes. "We must modernize our antiquated tax system so it will function properly, in today's economy," he said. "this means fundamental revision of our state and local tax system."

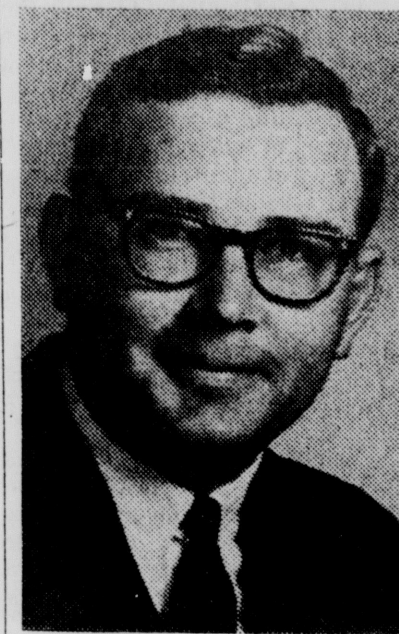

Sealy, 51, called for a change in direction of administrative policy as well as citing what he termed is a need for fiscal reform.

Sealy, a native of Columbus, is a graduate of Ohio State University and the Harvard Law School.

He and his wife, Flora, have three teen-age children.

He noted in his announcement that incumbent Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes is barred by law from seeking another term.

Rhodes Raps Welfare Cost

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes said Monday that welfare spending, if permitted to continue at its present rate, is "going to break this state and every community."

Rhodes, addressing the fifth annual Billion Dollar luncheon, said the answers to social ills "are here in this room—not in any welfare office. You are the people who have the jobs."

The luncheon is held annually for industrialists who located or expanded plants in Ohio during the previous year.

Rhodes said new capital investment in the state last year amounted to $2.42 billion and created 124,346 new jobs.

The governor said his vocational education program would halt the spiraling welfare cycle by providing job skills for youths not going on to college.

Track Team Breaks Records; Readies For County Meet

The track team this year has had a little trouble in winning meets, but individual performances have been outstanding.

Several records have been broken by Larry Pusey in the mile run and half mile; Byron Sykes in the two mile; Dan Cooper in the discus; and Tom Hunter in the shot put.

This year's team, like previous ones, is striving hard to win, but more important, they are competing against themselves; always trying to improve themselves.

Coach Albright says, "This year we have a lot of good individual performers, but we lack the depth for a well-rounded team. We're looking forward to good performances by our upcoming freshmen, sophomores and juniors."

Mr. Albright feels that Logan Elm is weak in the dashes and relays, but expects this situation to improve next year because they are run by freshmen and sophomores.

Social Security Hike Not Likely

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Wilbur D. Mills of the House Ways and Means Committee said Monday he sees little chance of a Social Security benefit increase this year.

But the Arkansas Democrat indicated an increase is in the cards for 1970—probably at a higher figure than the Nixon administration's goal of a 7 per cent boost. His committee has jurisdiction over Social Security legislation.

"I am not precluding entirely some action this year," Mills said, "but at this point I don't see how the committee can clear the other work before it can get to this issue."

Central electric air conditioning

QUESTION: Isn't central air-conditioning difficult and expensive to install?

ANSWER: No. If you have a forced warm-air heating system, central air-conditioning can use the existing fan and duct work. There are instances when duct work has to be installed. This is true if your present heating system does not have duct work, such as electric ceiling cable or baseboard heating or hot water heat. But the advantage is the simplicity of newer types of duct work. In an attic installation, where cooling coils and blower are in the attic, flexible tubing or duct work can be used to distribute cooling downward into rooms, through grills.

QUESTION: Can I buy a system that is just right for my home?

ANSWER: Yes, if you buy electric! They are manufactured in any size you need.

QUESTION: How does this differ from gas units?

ANSWER: There are only three (3) residential sizes made in gas units—none of which may suit your home.

QUESTION: Honestly, now, does the unit size really matter?

ANSWER: It most certainly does! A system not large enough will not adequately cool and dehumidify your home. But, if you buy a system too large, you are, first of all, paying for larger than you need. Then there is this added disadvantage: An over-capacity unit will run less frequently. That means it will not dehumidify as much as it should. An air-conditioner dehumidifies only when the compressor is running. And the dehumidifying is as important to comfort as the lowering of temperature.

QUESTION: What about equipment cost? I get the impression that a gas system is cheaper to buy.

ANSWER: That's an impression, but not the real facts! According to local gas company advertising, you'll pay just $14.00 a month. Investigate further and you'll find that's over a period of ten (10) years! An electric system costs from 20% to 30% less to buy than a comparable gas system. With only three (3) sizes of gas units, you might be paying for a unit that is too large. Last year, 55% of all central air-conditioning units installed were of a smaller size than any gas unit available. Therefore, you might save as much as 40% for an electric system.

QUESTION: What about electric financing?

ANSWER: Our recommended dealers can finance an electric unit for approximately $14.00 per month (maybe less) for seven (7) years in any home in which a gas unit can be installed for $14.00 per month for ten (10) years.

QUESTION: But gas operation is cheaper. Right?

ANSWER: Wrong! In most cases an electric unit will operate for less than a gas unit. Rates for electricity keep going down, but rates for fuels tend to keep going up. Besides, even a gas air-conditioner requires electricity to operate controls and three (3) electric motors. And a gas unit is at best only 50% efficient.

Track Team Breaks Records; Readies For County Meet

The track team this year has had a little trouble in winning meets, but individual performances have been outstanding.

Several records have been broken by Larry Pusey in the mile run and half mile; Byron Sykes in the two mile; Dan Cooper in the discus; and Tom Hunter in the shot put.

This year's team, like previous ones, is striving hard to win, but more important, they are competing against themselves; always trying to improve themselves.

Coach Albright says, "This year we have a lot of good individual performers, but we lack the depth for a well-rounded team. We're looking forward to good performances by our upcoming freshmen, sophomores and juniors."

Mr. Albright feels that Logan Elm is weak in the dashes and relays, but expects this situation to improve next year because they are run by freshmen and sophomores.

Dave Reichelderfer, a senior vaulter, stated that there might be a little problem in replacing the graduating seniors. Seniors are Dave Reichelderfer, polevault; Vic Hunt, polevault; Tom Hunter, shot put; and Dan Cooper, discus.

On May 12, Logan Elm will host the first annual county-wide Invitational Track Meet. Eight nine ribbons and a team trophy will be awarded. Field events start at 6 p.m. and track events at 7 p.m. Admission is free and refreshments will be served by the junior class.

Rhodes Raps Welfare Cost

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes said Monday that welfare spending, if permitted to continue at its present rate, is "going to break this state and every community."

Rhodes, addressing the fifth annual Billion Dollar luncheon, said the answers to social ills "are here in this room—not in any welfare office. You are the people who have the jobs."

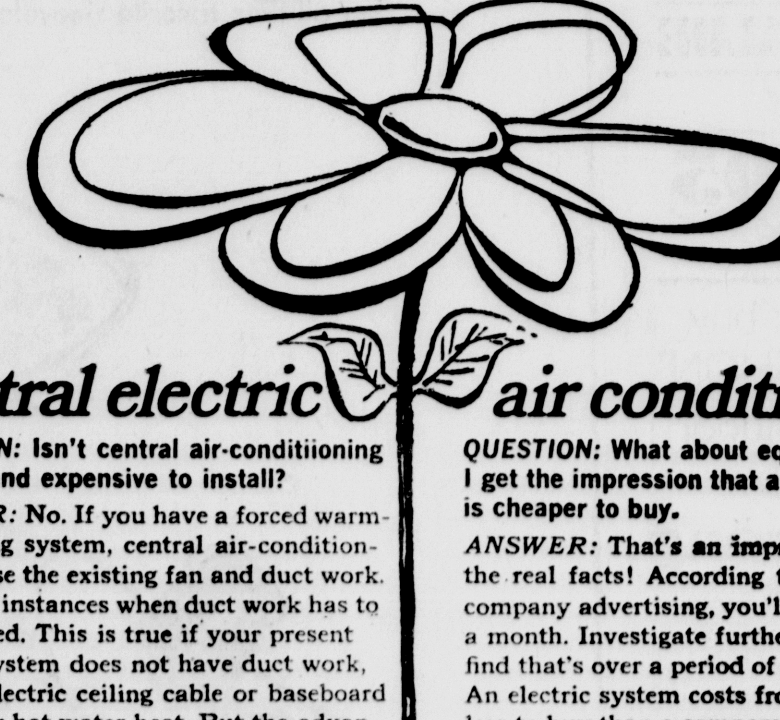

The luncheon is held annually for industrialists who located or expanded plants in Ohio during the previous year.

Rhodes said new capital investment in the state last year amounted to $2.42 billion and created 124,346 new jobs.

The governor said his vocational education program would halt the spiraling welfare cycle by providing job skills for youths not going on to college.

Central electric air conditioning

QUESTION: Isn't central air-conditioning difficult and expensive to install?
ANSWER: No. If you have a forced warm-air heating system, central air-conditioning can use the existing fan and duct work. There are instances when duct work has to be installed. This is true if your present heating system does not have duct work, such as electric ceiling cable or baseboard heating or hot water heat. But the advantage is the simplicity of newer types of duct work. In an attic installation, where cooling coils and blower are in the attic, flexible tubing or duct work can be used to distribute cooling downward into rooms, through grills.

QUESTION: Can I buy a system that is just right for my home?
ANSWER: Yes, if you buy electric! They are manufactured in any size you need.

QUESTION: How does this differ from gas units?
ANSWER: There are only three (3) residential sizes made in gas units—none of which may suit your home.

QUESTION: Honestly, now, does the unit size really matter?
ANSWER: It most certainly does! A system not large enough will not adequately cool and dehumidify your home. But, if you buy a system too large, you are, first of all, paying for larger than you need. Then there is this added disadvantage: An over-capacity unit will run less frequently. That means it will not dehumidify as much as it should. An air-conditioner dehumidifies only when the compressor is running. And the dehumidifying is as important to comfort as the lowering of temperature.

QUESTION: What about equipment cost? I get the impression that a gas system is cheaper to buy.
ANSWER: That's an impression, but not the real facts! According to local gas company advertising, you'll pay just $14.00 a month. Investigate further and you'll find that's over a period of ten (10) years! An electric system costs from 20% to 30% less to buy than a comparable gas system. With only three (3) sizes of gas units, you might be paying for a unit that is too large. Last year, 55% of all central air-conditioning units installed were of a smaller size than any gas unit available. Therefore, you might save as much as 40% for an electric system.

QUESTION: What about electric financing?
ANSWER: Our recommended dealers can finance an electric unit for approximately $14.00 per month (maybe less) for seven (7) years in any home in which a gas unit can be installed for $14.00 per month for ten (10) years.

QUESTION: But gas operation is cheaper. Right?
ANSWER: Wrong! In most cases an electric unit will operate for less than a gas unit. Rates for electricity keep going down, but rates for fuels tend to keep going up. Besides, even a gas air-conditioner requires electricity to operate controls and three (3) electric motors. And a gas unit is at best only 50% efficient.

For more information fill out and mail the self-addressed, postage paid card in your May electric service statement.

Fashion Revolution Hits Congress

By G. C. THELEN JR.
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Capitol Hill, once a fortress of pain-taking sartorial orthodoxy, is giving round to the Peacock Revolution in men's fashions.

Congressmen's sideburns are creeping down, their suits have more shaping, and the once-standard white shirt is moving aside for rainbow hues.

At first glance the chamber's still a sea of banker's gray and blue suits with unobtrusive ties on white shirts.

But with study the exceptions pop out.

Rep. M. G. Snyder, a 41-year-old sophomore Republican from Kentucky, sports mid-ear black sideburns and a midnight blue shirt.

Democratic Rep. Richard T. Hanna, wearing a peach, spread-collar shirt, strolls past Republican Charles E. Wiggins, a fellow Californian in a yellow sport coat.

Nearby, Rep. Seymour Halpern, a Republican resplendent in full gray sideburns and moustache, chats with another New Yorker, Democrat Bertram L. Podell. Podell's pepper-and-salt sideburns reach the bottom of his ears.

Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-Ill., complements his longer sideburns with a lime shirt.

Rep. Frank J. Brasco, D-N.Y., adds a pink-on-pink shirt and tie combination to his side-burns. Rep. William J. Scherle, R-Iowa., favors a mustard shirt and tie ensemble.

"It's true," remarks Rep. Peter N. Kyros, D-Maine, "sideburns are coming down and there is more color in shirts." His shirt that day was dark blue and his sideburns noticeably longer.

Younger congressmen have dropped the once-popular crew cut for longer hair styles. But none can yet match the flowing white manes of Republican Whip Leslie C. Arends of Illinois and Armed Services Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C.

Prominent moustaches adorn the upper lips of Reps. Chet Holifield, D-Calif., John H. Dent, D-Pa., Daniel J. Flood, D-Pa., John Conyers Jr., D-Mich., and Lester L. Wolff, D-N.Y.

Other notable sideburns belong to Reps. James C. Cleveland, R-N.H., Charles E. Bennett, D-Fla., Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., Joshua Eilberg, D-Pa., Gilbert Gude, R-Md., Silvio O. Conte, R-Mass., George E. Brown Jr., D-Calif., Andrew Jacobs Jr., D-Ind., Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., Alphonzo Bell, R-Calif., Thomas M. Rees, D-Calif., and James J. Howard, D-N.J.

Spice canned beef bouillon with lemon juice and Worcestershire sauce and serve over ice as a before-dinner offering.

Reddin Quits LA Police

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police Chief Thomas Reddin, who retires today after 28 years in law enforcement, says he "is almost willing to write off a generation of young Americans" because of their current attitude toward authority.

"The price of freedom still is what it always has been—willingness to submit to the rule of reason," he said in an interview, listing protest demonstrations as among six major problems confronting the nation's police.

Reddin is stepping down as the $32,500-a-year head of the nation's fourth largest police force to become a newscaster for television station KTLA, at a reported salary of $100,000 a year.

Reddin says crime will continue to be the biggest problem for police. He listed urban unrest as the most irritating and police-community relations as the most difficult.

Other major problems facing police departments, in Reddin's view, include the development of space-age communications for law enforcement; effective police competition for college graduates; and a citizenry convinced it must personally become involved in seeing that there is effective law enforcement.

Reddin Quits LA Police

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police Chief Thomas Reddin, who retires today after 28 years in law enforcement, says he "is almost willing to write off a generation of young Americans" because of their current attitude toward authority.

"The price of freedom still is what it always has been—willingness to submit to the rule of reason," he said in an interview, listing protest demonstrations as among six major problems confronting the nation's police.

Reddin is stepping down as the $32,500-a-year head of the nation's fourth largest police force to become a newscaster for television station KTLA, at a reported salary of $100,000 a year.

Reddin says crime will continue to be the biggest problem for police. He listed urban unrest as the most irritating and police-community relations as the most difficult.

Other major problems facing police departments, in Reddin's view, include the development of: space-age communications for law enforcement; effective police competition for college graduates; and a citizenry convinced it must personally become involved in seeing that there is effective law enforcement.

Woman Flees Kidnapers; Search Covers 3 States

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP) — The terrified wife of a wealthy businessman made the most of her "last chance" Monday night and bolted to safety from a pistol-shooting kidnaper who had threatened her life in a demand for $100,000 ransom.

Mrs. Howard P. McKunkin suffered only a minor bump on the head during her quickdash to freedom at a local drive-in restaurant.

"I was afraid this would be my last chance, so I decided to run," the 47-year-old woman told police.

Her captors, a blonde man and a woman in their late 20s, fled in a late-model blue sedan and became the object of a manhunt that spread rapidly into nearby Kentucky and Ohio.

Mrs. McKunkin said the man told her he had a suitcase packed with hand grenades and firearms.

Mrs. McKunkin said she was taken from her fashionable home in the South Hills section of Charleston, 52 miles east of here about 1:30 p.m.

Mrs. McKunkin, whose husband is president of McKunkin Corp. and chairman of the Charleston Urban Renewal Authority, said she was handcuffed and placed in the front seat of the car.

Mrs. McKunkin escaped when her abductors stopped at the drive-in restaurant to use a telephone booth to contact McKunkin. Mrs. McKunkin dashed by the gunman toward the restaurant.

Witnesses said the man fired one shot at the fleeing woman. Although the shot missed, Mrs. McKunkin fell to the pavement and her abductors fled in their car.

Greece To Stay Council Member

LONDON (AP) — Pressure to expel the Greek military dictatorship from the Council of Europe virtually collapsed today, diplomatic sources reported.

The question of Greek membership in the 18-nation forum was the first item of business today for the council's Committee of Ministers at their meeting commemorating the 20th anniversary of the organizations. But the sources reported the potentially hot issue had been cooled off in advance by British opposition.

Scandinavian nations led by Denmark had been pressing for expulsion or suspension of the Athens military junta. They charged it had suppressed democratic rights contrary to the charter of the council. But the sources said the Scandinavians had agreed not to push their demands to a vote.

Notre Dame President Gives Guide For Peace, Progress

By GARVEN HUDGINS
AP Education Writer

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — The president of the University of Notre Dame, who has become a symbol of the college administrator willing to deal firmly with student disorders, says a university has to save itself by declaring ground rules and then enforcing them.

Father Theodore Hesburgh gained nationwide attention in February when, in a letter to Notre Dame students, he warned that anyone engaged in disruptive protest would be given 15 minutes to desist or be liable for suspension.

In a wide-ranging interview, Hesburgh said he felt the core of his message to students was lost in the wave of publicity "I didn't want to come out as a hawk," he said. "I wanted to act as a rational man, reacting to a crisis situation."

As for today's college students, he said:

"It's a tragedy—a damn shame—that these kids have been given the reputation they have by the radicals."

"The vast majority of university and college students today are a very promising and highly attractive group of persons."

"They are more informed, more widely read, better educated, more idealistic and more deeply sensitive to crucial moral issues in our times—more likely to dedicate themselves to good rather than selfish goals than any past generation of students I have known."

Here are excerpts from the question and answer session:

Q. What do you feel is the essential requirement for a university facing disruption to adequately cope with threatened disruption?

A. A university has to react to threats of disruption as a community, including all its elements—students, faculty, alumni and trustees. The university has to be its own salvation. It has to declare its own values and stand up and defend them. If the students and the faculty don't feel the value of their own community, then you're dead.

Q. Do you believe that outside law agencies should be called upon in cases of severe disorder?

A. When lawlessness is afoot and all authority is flouted—faculty, the administration and the students—then we invoke the normal societal forces of law or we allow the university to die beneath our hapless and hopeless gaze.

I have no intention of presiding over such a spectacle. Too many people have given too much of themselves and their lives to this university to let it happen here.

Q. What, in your opinion, can a university president do to try and prevent campus violence before it starts?

A. A university president has to get the university community behind him.

Protest is perfectly valid and should be protected, but it should match and be kept within the life-style of the university.

The university community—and that includes everyone in it—has to save itself by declaring its own ground rules and then by enforcing these.

If a person has had the rules of the game laid out for him, he knows what they are. He can either follow them or leave the game. You can tell someone who is abridging the rights of others, for example, that he's doing something the whole community disapproves. If he goes against the community, he's out.

ON GUARD—Defensive end of the Los Angeles Rams, Deacon Jones now is on guard in a TV series which stars Elizabeth Montgomery. The episode will be shown next fall.

The persistent agitator would then have taken himself out of the community. He is the one who decides; not the administration.

Q. Do you believe it is possible for moderate students to organize themselves on campuses to thwart the radicals?

A. I can imagine turning the majority of the university community loose on them, but then you would have two mobs. I don't want that. That's not preserving the community. It's more important to get the community to declare itself. Once you've done that, you've won a big point.

Q. Do you think the extreme radicals have any validity to their arguments?

A. Even the most far out students are trying to tell society something that may also be worth searching for if they would only lower the volume so we could hear the message.

Q. What is at the root of student unrest?

A. Many of them are bothered by some aspects of American and world society and current values or lack of them—with good reason in most cases. They would work very hard, I believe, if given a real opportunity to participate in changing this world for the better. They would also find out how hard this is to do and would quickly discard some of their more naive present solutions to our problems.

Q. Is it possible for older generations—the so-called establishment—to reach young people ideologically today?

A. I think we can start by telling all our young people who have the talent and the willingness to work that they can get a college education. If the government supported this idea of a higher education for everyone with a willingness to work, it would cost only seven per cent of the gross national product per year.

Then, everybody who is being helped by the country would have to realize that he is going to have to do something for his country in return.

I would suggest one year of service to other people in some form. Young people could take one year to do this kind of service anywhere they choose—inside the United States or abroad...

Let a young man or woman draw up a program and present it to a college dean, who could decide if it is valid. At the end of a year of service in this form, the student would be graded pass or fail.

If he succeeded, he could cancel out a portion of what he may owe the government for his education.

As soon as we are out of Vietnam, this program could be a substitute for military service.

Crack Down On Smut In Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Three men arrested in raids which Chief Police Prosecutor Clarence D. Rogers said were "just the beginning of a continuing effort to rid our city of smut peddlers" were due in court today.

They were arrested Monday on charges of possession of obscene materials in raids by Rogers and police in which large quantities of books, magazines and movies were confiscated or locked up to be hauled away by police later.

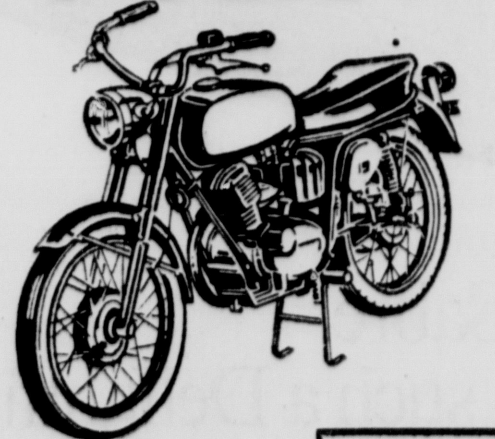

John DeFelice, 31, owner of the All Adult Book store, and William A. Holmes, 29, owner of the Book Shoppe, both on the near West Side, were charged with possession of obscene materials. Rogers said books, magazines and movies sold at the store were pornographic.

Police watched a movie, "Going Down for the Third Time," at the Broadvue Theater for about 15 minutes before Rogers declared it obscene. The theater manager, Robert Mullen, 42, of Lakewood, was charged with possession of an obscene film.

DeFelice, Holmes and Mullen were to appear in Municipal Court today.

An East Side building containing the Sovereign News Co. and the World Wide News Co. was padlocked. Alleged obscene materials at the agencies were to be hauled away by police today.

Rhodes Budget To Go Before House For Wednesday Vote

By PERRY SMITH
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The flexible budget of the Rhodes administration will go before the House Wednesday for a floor vote.

The budget, originally $5.8 billion, will appear in the House as a $4.4 billion piece of legislation. However, it will bounce back to $5.8 billion in another bill.

The House Finance Committee deleted $1.4 billion in education appropriations from the main budget, but will include the amount in a supplemental appropriation bill still in the committee.

Funds have been shifted in the two-year budget to provide a pay raise for most state employees and to boost the Highway Patrol by 150 men over the period.

Martin A. Janis, director of the Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction, said he hopes to convince the legislature to grant larger pay raises to prison guards and state hospital attendants.

The pay raise bill, as proposed, would boost salaries in the lowest classifications from $2,328 to $4,160 over two years. It includes present step increases.

Janis said he wants the legislature to boost the figure for his department. He wouldn't reveal the amount.

The Finance Committee is to meet tonight at 8. Janis said he will make his figures public then.

"Our concern is higher salaries for those in association with innates and patients," he said. "This includes professionals, but we're primarily thinking about nonprofessionals."

Both houses of the 108th General Assembly were to reconvene today at 4 p. m. following a long weekend recess.

Monday night and Tuesday

daytime sessions were not scheduled this week because of the primary elections.

Crosthwaite Bid Denied

CINCINNATI (AP) — The 1st Ohio District Court of Appeals refused Monday to grant a writ of habeas corpus to Treva Crosthwaite, acquitted of killing her father by reason of insanity.

Attorneys for the 17-year-old girl from Clarksville filed for the writ for her release from Warren County jail.

The court ruled that she must be examined for insanity since there was nothing in the court record to refute the presumption of insanity.

Her counsel contended that Miss Crosthwaite had been deprived of her rights by continuing confinement. She is to be transferred to Lima State Hospital.

A jury in Warren County Common Pleas court found her innocent April 25 of the shooting Nov. 1, 1968, death of Hubert Crosthwaite, 57.

Union Officials Face Sentences

CHICAGO (AP) — Federal Judge Abraham L. Marovitz has set June 16 for the sentencing of four Seafarers International Union members convicted Monday of conspiring to commit acts of terrorism during a 1963 labor dispute.

The defendants were accused of conspiring to bomb railroad tracks in Maumee, Ashtabula, and Toledo, Ohio, in July and August 1963 during a labor dispute with the Upper Great Lakes Shipping Co. of Canada.

Convicted were Joseph A. Tanner, 46, of Dearborn Heights, Mich., union vice president of the Great Lakes District; Jack A. Pearl, 36, Cherry Hill, N. J.; Lawrence Rice, 40, Trenton, Mich.; and Walter B. Chipman, 34, of Houston, Tex.

HOPING FOR MIRACLE—Cynthia Lynn Burt Fabian, 19, and her husband, Steven Fabian III, will start a household following their honeymoon and hope for a miracle in Dallas, Tex. Their Aug. 30 wedding date was moved up after doctors found she had lung tumors resulting from a cancer-infested leg that was removed a year ago. They say she may live only four more months, but she declared, "I believe there will be a miracle . . . But, it is God's will that I die, I'm not afraid to go."

NEW YORK (AP) — What do you do when you have an all-star cast that ranges alphabetically from the Beatles to Dionne Warwick; introducers whose range extends from Tennessee Ernie Ford to Tiny Tim, and awards to announce and hit songs of the season to be sung—all in one hour?

What you do, if you are the harried producers of NBC's "Best on Record" special broadcast Monday night, is get them on camera somehow, toss in a lot of color for background. Then you hope that in the audience's eagerness to see the stars and find out who won the "Record of the Year" award, nobody will notice that as a TV show, it really didn't amount to much.

The difficulty, of course, was just too much of everything—there were 11 different nominees and award winners performing. There was also another problem which involved the eyes and ears of the beholders: and seeing the performers all over the place all season long.

The only surprise in the show was the on camera award of the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences to the singing team of Simon and Garfunkel for "Mrs. Robinson," which as nominees they had sung earlier in the show. It was the one attempt at whimsy in the show—some trick comedy film shot in a deserted Yankee Stadium.

Non-musicians Rowan and Martin opened and closed the show: Don Rickles passed some insults to Tiny Tim; Flip Wilson presented one of the singing stars. As celebrities they swelled the list of stars but their contributions to pop music was as hazy as most of their comedy material.

Most of the Grammy Award winners—Jose Feliciano, O. C. Smith, Glen Campbell and Jeanne C. Riley, among others, presented their hits in the context of the program. The Beatles were seen in a film clip that had already been broadcast on television.

Maybe the Grammy Awards have become a bit of a drag because of TV's current passion for pop music and pop singers. Maybe award shows come along so often in the spring that they are losing their old appeal. It is interesting to note that this year's Oscar awards show, while it still topped the most recent Nielsen ratings list, failed to attract its usual outside audience by several hundred thousand homes.

It was, nevertheless, the number one show during the two week ending April 20, but only by a percentage of a point. The Dick Van Dyke-Mary Tyler Moore special ran it a close second. Bill Cosby's special was in third place.

Broadway's Tony awards, also broadcast during that time, came in a week 74th in a list of over 100 shows rated.

Next show in that category will be the presentation of television's Emmys—still the most unwieldy show of them all. This year the program will come on Sunday, June 8 on CBS and it will be something of a miracle if they can race through 45 categories and some special awards in the 90 minutes allotted to it.

What you do, if you are the harried producers of NBC's "Best on Record" special broadcast Monday night, is get them on camera somehow, toss in a lot of color for background. Then you hope that in the audience's eagerness to see the stars and find out who won the "Record of the Year" award, nobody will notice that as a TV show, it really didn't amount to much.

The difficulty, of course, was just too much of everything—there were 11 different nominees and award winners performing. There was also another problem which involved the eyes and ears of the beholders: and seeing the performers all over the place all season long.

The only surprise in the show was the on camera award of the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences to the singing team of Simon and Garfunkel for "Mrs. Robinson," which as nominees they had sung earlier in the show. It was the one attempt at whimsy in the show—some trick comedy film shot in a deserted Yankee Stadium.

Non-musicians Rowan and Martin opened and closed the show: Don Rickles passed some insults to Tiny Tim; Flip Wilson presented one of the singing stars. As celebrities they swelled the list of stars but their contributions to pop music was as hazy as most of their comedy material.

Most of the Grammy Award winners—Jose Feliciano, O. C. Smith, Glen Campbell and Jeanie C. Riley, among others, presented their hits in the context of the program. The Beatles were seen in a film clip that had already been broadcast on television.

Maybe the Grammy Awards have become a bit of a drag because of TV's current passion for pop music and pop singers. Maybe award shows come along so often in the spring that they are losing their old appeal. It is interesting to note that this year's Oscar awards show, while it still topped the most recent Nielsen ratings list, failed to attract its usual outside audience by several hundred thousand homes.

It was, nevertheless, the number one show during the two week ending April 20, but only by a percentage of a point. The Dick Van Dyke-Mary Tyler Moore special ran it a close second.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The flexible budget of the Rhodes administration will go before the House Wednesday for a floor vote.

The budget, originally $5.8 billion, will appear in the House as a $4.4 billion piece of legislation. However, it will bounce back to $5.8 billion in another bill.

The House Finance Committee deleted $1.4 billion in education appropriations from the main budget, but will include the

Crosthwaite Bid Denied

CINCINNATI (AP) — The 1st Ohio District Court of Appeals refused Monday to grant a writ of habeas corpus to Treva Crosthwaite, acquitted of killing her father by reason of insanity.

Attorneys for the 17-year-old girl from Clarksville filed for the writ for her release from Warren County jail.

The court ruled that she must be examined for insanity since there was nothing in the court record to refute the presumption of insanity.

Her counsel contended that Miss Crosthwaite had been deprived of her rights by continuing confinement. She is to be transferred to Lima State Hospital.

A jury in Warren County Common Pleas court found her innocent April 25 of the shooting Nov. 1, 1968, death of Hubert Crosthwaite, 37.

Union Officials Face Sentences

CHICAGO (AP) — Federal Judge Abraham L. Marovitz has set June 16 for the sentencing of four Seafarers International Union members convicted Monday of conspiring to commit acts of terrorism during a 1963 labor dispute.

The defendants were accused of conspiring to bomb railroad tracks in Maumee, Ashtabula, and Toledo, Ohio, in July and August 1963 during a labor dispute with the Upper Great Lakes Shipping Co. of Canada.

Convicted were Joseph A. Tanner, 46, of Dearborn Heights, Mich., union vice president of the Great Lakes District; Jack A. Pearl, 36, Cherry Hill, N. J.; Lawrence Rice, 40, Trenton, Mich.; and Walter B. Chipman, 34, of Houston, Tex.

HOPING FOR MIRACLE—Cynthia Lynn Burt Fabian, 19, and her husband, Steven Fabian III, will start a household following their honeymoon and hope for a miracle in Dallas, Tex. Their Aug. 30 wedding date was moved up after doctors found she had lung tumors resulting from a cancer-infested leg that was removed a year ago. They say she may live only four more months, but she declared, "I believe there will be a miracle . . . But, if it is God's will that I die, I'm not afraid to go."

Boston Celtics Beat Lakers To Reign As Kings Of NBA

WOE IS HIM — This is no cheering bit that Wilt Chamberlain is going through, but horror as a shot by Sam Jones of the Boston Celtics goes through for a basket. The Celtics defeated Los Angeles Lakers, 108-106 Monday to win their 11th NBA Championship in 13 years.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The reign of the Boston Celtics continues in the National Basketball Association and frustration remained the key word for the Los Angeles Lakers today.

The well-balanced Celtics defeated the Lakers, 108-106, in the seventh and deciding game of the series Monday night. They did it on the friendly home court of the Lakers at the Forum before a record Forum crowd of 17,568.

It marked the 11th time in the past 13 years that Boston carried off the NBA championship, and the sixth time the Lakers came up short against Boston.

Capt. Elgin Baylor of the Lakers summed it up very well when he said, "It becomes very discouraging the way Boston seems to tantalize us and then always come through in the clutch. They outplayed us in the third quarter and took the game away from us."

Player-coach Bill Russell of the winners, having made this his 11th winning season, took it all calmly—but happily.

"Comradship, friendship," said Russell.

Boston's John Havlicek put his team in front in the opening seconds and the Celtics were never behind from there on. Los Angeles tied it at 2-2 and then at 4-4 on shots by Jerry West and Wilt Chamberlain.

Boston led by as much as 14 points in the first quarter but Los Angeles kept clawing back and trailed by only 59-56 at the half.

One minute 50 seconds into the third period Keith Erickson's free throw tied it up at 60-60 and it appeared the Lakers might roll on.

The hope evaporated as Havlicek, Don Nelson and Sam Jones, the latter playing his final game, put 11 points on the scoreboard in a matter of minutes and cruised out in front, 71-60.

"I think the turning point, came at this point," said Havlicek. "They came on strong but we put together 10 or 15 points."

Going into the fourth quarter, it was Boston, 91-73.

"We had opportunities all over the place," said Laker coach Bill Van Breda Kolff. "But we just couldn't do it. I really thought we had a chance to win it in the beginning of the third period because we were getting good shots, but the game just turned around instead. The ball just appeared to bounce their way."

But the Lakers weren't dead as of Sam Jones said later, "They just kept coming back."

West, apparently not bothered by a pulled hamstring in his left leg, accounted for 14 points in about five minutes to narrow the Celtic margin to 103-100.

But Larry Siegfried, Nelson and the awesome Havlicek stormed back to put the game really out of reach, 108-102, with less than 24 seconds remaining.

West won the Sport Magazine award—a Dodge R-T car—as the outstanding player of the series. His 536 points in the prolonged NBA playoffs bettered the 521 set by Rick Barry, then of San Francisco's Warriors, three years ago.

Toledo Tops Louisville, 6-1

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In 36 innings so far this season, Toledo right-hander Tom Timmerman has given up only seven runs, has struck out 35 batters and holds a 1.75 earned run average.

In the 16 days of the 1969 season, Timmerman, with a 4-0 mark, has more victories than he did in all of 1968 when he finished with a 4-9 mark.

And it was Timmerman who yielded only two hits and fanned nine to lead the Mud Hens to a 6-1 victory over Louisville in Monday night's International League play.

Ohio's other entry in the IL, Columbus, didn't fare so well as John Orsino's home run featured Syracuse's 6-4 victory over the Jets. The Chiefs had 10 hits and seven of them figured in the scoring.

In other Monday games, Tidewater stayed in first place by defeating Buffalo 5-1 and Richmond whipped Rochester 5-3, dumping the Red Wings into the IL basement.

Braves Top Union Furnace In Twin Bill

Logan Elm won a reserve- varsity doubleheader from visiting Star-Washington (Union Furnace) of Hocking County, taking the reserve tilt by a 14-6 score and the varsity game by a 12-0 tally.

The Braves' 12 runs in the varsity tilt came on seven hits and six walks and nine errors by the visitors.

Logan Elm opened the game with six runs in the bottom of the first inning on singles by K. C. Jones and Greg Fouch, four Star-Washington errors a walk and two fielder's choices.

In the second inning they went ahead 8-0 on two walks and a double by Wirtie Teets, a freshman. The winners wrapped up the scoring in the third inning with four more runs on two errors, two walks, a double by Steve Sykes, a single by Bob Triplehorn and a single by Pete Strawser.

TEETS was the winning pitcher. Working the first five innings, he walked two, fanned six and allowed three hits. He was relieved by Steve Swank in the sixth frame. It was Swank's first mound start since the first game of the season when he was injured by a ball hit into the dugout. Swank walked three, fanned one and allowed two hits.

In a Scioto Valley Conference game last Friday, Logan Elm was beaten, 3-0, by Unioto.

The Braves have a 4-7 overall varsity record and are 1-5 in the conference.

Wednesday they host Laurelville in an SVC tilt.

Griffith Says Refs Block His Wins

NEW YORK (AP) — Emile Griffith means that "nobody lets me punch away inside any more since the accident."

For a long time after "the accident" it was Emile himself who seemed to let up when he had opponents in trouble with body or head punches. Now the former three-time welterweight champion and two-time middleweight king, says it is the referees.

The accident Griffith refers to was the fatal beating Benny "Kid" Paret absorbed in their return welterweight championship fight at Madison Square Garden, March 24, 1962. Paret, stopped in the 12th round, died 10 days later.

Griffith said referee Zach Clayton was too quick to break in his losing 10-rounder with Stanley "Kitten" Hayward in Hayward's home town of Philadelphia last Oct. 29.

"I got off to a late start in that fight," said Griffith who meets Hayward in a return bout at the Garden next Monday night. "I got moving real good from the fourth round on and I had him in real trouble in the 10th. But Clayton kept coming in between us when I was working real good inside."

"It's not only Clayton. Other referees seem to be real quick to break when I got inside. It's been that way since the accident."

Baseball Teams Start Tour Outside Divisions

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

East meets West tonight for the first time in baseball's traditional-breaking centennial season. It won't be too soon for the Detroit Tigers and St. Louis Cardinals.

After a month of uninterrupted intra-division play in the majors' new East-West alignment, the 24 clubs begin extended swings outside their groupings—with the runaway 1968 pennant winners scrambling to make up lost ground.

The world champion Tigers, who captured the American League flag by 12 lengths, are two games under .500 and seven games behind front-running Baltimore in the AL East Division.

St. Louis, which took the National League top spot by nine games last fall, is four games below the break-even mark and trails the first place Chicago Cubs by seven games in the NL East. The Cardinals have been beaten 11 times in 12 home games and are just one-half length ahead of Montreal's division tailenders.

Last May 6, Detroit was 14-8 and Denny McLain had won his first four pitching decisions on the way to a fantastic 31-6 finish and the league's Most Valuable Player and Cy Young awards.

Bob Gibson, 22-9 and the NL MVP and Cy Young winner, was 2-1 at the same point for the Cards, who had won 15 of 23 starts.

McLain, 4-3 this spring, is scheduled to pitch for the Tigers tonight at Detroit against the surprising Kansas City Royals.

Gibson, 2-2, is set to go for the Cardinal at St. Louis against San Francisco.

Three National League pitchers who have seized the 1969 spotlight by hurling early season no-hitters—Montreal's Bill Stoneman, Cincinnati's Jim Maloney and Houston's Don Wilson—also are due to work in their clubs' inter-division openers.

Stoneman, who made history for the expansion Expos against Philadelphia on April 17, is their scheduled starter at Atlanta. Maloney and Wilson, who fired no-hitters in successive games at Cincinnati April 30 and May 1, are set to pitch at New York and Philadelphia, respectively.

San Diego is at Pittsburgh and Los Angeles at the Chicago Cubs in other National League games. In the American League, Minnesota is at Cleveland, Washington at Oakland, the Chicago White Sox at Baltimore, Boston at Seattle and the New York Yankees at California.

While the Tigers have had trouble getting started in the AL, new Manager Billy Martin has sent Minnesota out of the West Division gate in high gear and Washington, aroused by first year pilot Ted Williams, has risen up from the 1968 cellar to challenge Baltimore in the East.

The Twins, who finished seventh last season, 24 games off the pace, have won eight in a row and 16 of their last 19 for a 2 1/2-game lead in the West. The Senators, 37 1/2 games behind the Tigers last October, have won 10 of their last 11 to seize second place in the East, 3 1/2 lengths behind the high-flying Orioles.

Atlanta and Chicago each 11-12 a year ago today, are perched atop the National League standings. The Braves, geographic misfits in the West, lead Los Angeles and San Francisco by two games. The Cubs are two up on Pittsburgh in the East.

Kansas City, third in the AL West with a 13-11 mark, has been most impressive among the four expansion clubs. San Diego, Montreal and Seattle are playing sub-.500 ball. All four have fared better than the Cleveland Indians, who have lost 18 of 21 starts, and the Astros, who dropped 15 of 16 in one stretch before Wilson came up with his no-hitter.

On the plus side, the Astros pulled off seven double plays against San Francisco last Sunday, tying the major league record set 23 years ago by the Yankees.

Other highlights in the first month of the campaign included record home run sprees by the Red Sox and Baltimore's Frank Robinson and a six-hit binge by KC rookie Bob Oliver last Sunday.

The Red Sox poled 27 homers in 11 consecutive games and Robinson connected 10 times in the month of April. Oliver became the first AL player in seven years to collect six hits in a game when he clubbed four singles, a double and his third homer against California.

Robinson, batting .340 and leading the majors with 25 RBI, has triggered the Orioles' 20-8 getaway along with 5-0 left-hander Dave McNally. A year ago today, Robinson was batting .250, with no homers and three RBI.

The Mets' Cleon Jones, a notorious slow starter in previous years, leads NL batters with a .398 average—compared to his .246 mark at this juncture last season. Rod Carew of the Twins is the AL pacesetter at .390.

Tiger Golfers Win 15th; Blank Unioto, Logan, 11-0

The Circleville High School golf team defeated Logan and Unioto, both by scores of 11-0, Monday in a triangular at the Pickaway Country Club.

The Tiger linksters showed their best balance of the season, carding two 37s, two 40s and a 41 for a team total of 195.

Bill Adkins, playing in the number one position, shot a 37, one over par. Mike Ayers and Mike Young both were four over at 40, Mike Vaughan shot a five over par 41 and Greg Heiskell, playing in the number five position shot a one over par 37.

For Logan, Pinky Johnson shot a 39, Henderson a 46, Goldsberry a 44, Sloan a 47 and Saving a 57. Unioto's Bill Weiler carded a 44, Amos a 42, Conaway a 44, Kysor a 42 and Chestnut a 56.

WEDNESDAY The Tigers host Lancaster and Teays Valley at the Pickaway Country Club. On Friday they travel to Washington Country Club to play the Blue Lions in the final match before the sectional tournament at Stoney Creek Golf Course in Columbus on May 13 and the South Central Ohio league meet at Pickaway Country Club May 19.

The Circleville golf team now has a 15-5-2 record.

OSU Basketball Stock High As Luke Witte Joins Bucks

By HAL PARIS

Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The signing of Luke Witte has sent Ohio State's basketball stock soaring amid speculation that the Buckeyes are on the verge of another Lucas-Havlicek era.

Witte, the 7-foot marvel from Marlinton who was coveted by more than 100 colleges, made his much-awaited decision Monday in Alliance.

Coach Fred Taylor was at his side when Witte announced he planned to attend Ohio State and pursue a career in business administration.

His choice was no surprise. Reports have persisted since the end of the 1968-69 season that the Stark County standout would be at Ohio State next fall.

There were reports, too, that 6-7 Nick Weatherspoon of Canton McKinley, a personal friend of Witte's, also would become a Buckeye. But no decision on Weatherspoon's plans is expected until next week.

"I don't know of a single player in the state who has more potential than Witte," Taylor told The Associated Press at the state tournament.

Witte, who averaged 32.5 points a game while hauling in 21 rebounds a contest, is the third all-state prep star to pick Ohio State.

Sensational Allan Hornyak of Bellaire St. John's, a 6-2 guard who led the state in scoring with a near 42 point average, signed last month. And 6-1 Dave Merchant of Marion Harding, a flashy guard with a 27.5 average, made his decision last Friday.

Other heralded players who have chosen Ohio State are Mark Wagar, a second team Class A all-stater from Avon, who stands 6-8, and 6-4 Bob Sickmann, a third-team selection from Cincinnati Oak Hills.

Taylor still has two grants in aid and one is reserved for Weatherspoon should the McKinley ace decide on the Columbus school.

Oakland Defeats Indiana, 144-117

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Oakland moved only one victory away from the American Basketball Association championship Monday night with a 144-117 triumph over the Indiana Pacers at Indianapolis.

The win gave the Oaks a 3-1 lead in the best-of-7 playoff series. The fifth game is scheduled Wednesday night in Oakland.

Aqueduct Shutdown Brings Reaction

NEW YORK (AP) — A state legislator has suggested that the state government consider operating New York race tracks as Aqueduct remained closed today for the ninth straight day.

Horsemen are boycotting the track until there is action or sign of action on a bill that would have permitted four extra racing days in New York with the proceeds going to a pension fund for backstretch employees.

PCC Roundup Set Saturday

The annual Men's Roundup at the Pickaway Country Club will begin 7:30 a.m. Saturday, it was announced by Barry Fisher, pro.

Tickets and tee time reservations may be obtained at the pro shop. Price of the ticket includes golf, refreshments, prizes and a dinner in the evening.

In a poker tournament held last Saturday at the Country Club, George Brown was the winner. Hal Whitfield was second and Steve Helwage and Fisk O'Hara tied for third.

Sunday a blind bogey tournament was held. Dick Clifton was the winner and Lyle Bookman and Don Hill tied for third.

Junior High Thinlies Win At Greenfield

The Circleville Junior High trackmen won the Greenfield Invitational Saturday.

There were 11 schools in the meet. Circleville had a total of 44 points. The closest team to them was Washington C.H. with 28 points.

The last time Circleville won this meet was in 1946.

The Circleville 440-yard relay team of Dearth, Camp, Bowers and Truex was first. Also winning events were Pontious, who was first in the broad jump, and Kasler, who was first in the low hurdles. Kasler also placed third in the low hurdles.

Dearth was second in the 100 yard dash, Frericks was second in the discus and fourth in the shot. Dave Truex was second in the 220-yard dash. Clark was fourth in the 220 yard dash. Bill Halstenberg was second in the 880-yard run, Greg Hoskins was fifth in the low hurdles and Bowers was second in the 440-yard run.

SPORTS Highlights

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Lane Road grabbed a late lead and won by two lengths the feature race at Beulah Park Monday.

The winner paid $4.80, $3 and $2.40 while Bell Metal placed for $3.20 and $2.40. Petitions Lady showed for $2.60.

The 12-1 daily double combination of Itsnewday and Tudor Lea brought $56.40.

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Bengals announced today that they have signed split end Rickey Lindsey of Florence (Ala.) State University as a free agent.

Lindsey, 23, who lives in Sheffield, Ala., stands 5-feet-11 and weighs 180.

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Maloney gets his third crack at hurling back-to-back no-hitters, a feat accomplished only by Johnny Vander Meer of Cincinnati, when he pitches against New York tonight.

Maloney's only comment about the chance was "I just want to win the game."

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Minnesota Twins, who don't know why they keep on winning, come to Cleveland tonight for a two-game series with the Cleveland Indians, who are having trouble explaining why they keep on losing.

The Twins have won eight in a row and lead the Western Division of the American League.

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A letter of intent has been signed by Norman Russell, 6-foot, 11-inch Mountain View, Okla., basketball player to attend Oklahoma City University. Russell said he has been contacted by about 175 colleges and universities.

SHOW LOW, Ariz. (AP) — Bruce Tulloh was scheduled to resume his eastward journey today in his attempt to establish a running record between Los Angeles and New York.

He passed through Phoenix, Ariz., April 30. He said here he was three days behind schedule because of trouble with his in-step.

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — Mark Gianfrancesco of Pittsburgh has signed a grant-in-aid at the University of Georgia. He scored more than 1,000 points in basketball during his last two seasons.

MOUNTAIN TRAGEDY — Boyd N. Everett Jr., 35, of New York, and six other men were killed by an avalanche while attempting to climb the 26,975-foot Himalayan peak, Mt. Dhaulagiri, the Nepalese foreign office reports. Five other men are reported in good condition.

pensed by rookie manager Ted Williams.

The mental snickers could be heard across the nation when Williams, who left baseball nine years ago in a blaze of glory and with a slew of records, was urged out of retirement by neophyte owner Robert Short to manage the longtime sad sack club of the American League.

After all, he had no experience as a manager. True, he was one of the game's greatest sluggers and the last to hit over .400. But he also was considered temperamental.

Could Williams, the supreme perfectionist, withstand the slipshod baseball played by the Senators, who finished 37½ games in the cellar in 1968 and had not had a winning season since 1952?

Williams, 50, signed his contract a few days before the beginning of spring training and went to Florida apparently full aware of the problems he faced.

The Hall of Famer believed his biggest problems would come with the pitchers because, he said in spring training, his 20 years in the game had been devoted to hitting.

It was generally conceded that hitter Williams would be supreme teacher Williams but whether the Senators could become quick learners as his pupils would be another matter.

The Senators did poorly during spring training. Washington's 1969 slogan "It's a Whole New Ballgame" merely brought shrugs from the residents of the nation's capital who had become immune to slogans not backed up by action.

But after the first month of the regular season, the Senators, with basically the same ballplayers who were mired deep in the dark caverns of the league, appeared to be a different club.

The have won 16 of 27 contests this year to put them in second place of the East Division.

They have had two winning streaks of five games each and have now taken 10 of their last 11 starts to give them the fastest getaway since 1952.

Attendance at home games has totaled 171,746, or 36,165 more than went through the turnstiles during the first 13 games of 1967 when Washington ended its best season at the gate with 770,668 customers.

To the fan, the difference is that they're winning this year. To those who follow the club closely, there seems to be a sprint among the players that never was or at least never surfaced. Perhaps the two are intertwined.

There are many arguments over the first difference, but none over the second: simply, it's Williams.

Huge Frank Howard, who last year led the league in homers

MIGHTY DARK DAYS — The manager of the Indians, Alvin Dark, is going through some dark days as his club struggles to win a few games after a disastrous start. His team was losing in a recent game when this was taken.

Pete Retzlaff New Eagles VP, Manager

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Pete Retzlaff, one of the all-time great pass receivers in National Football League history, is the new vice president and general manager of the Philadelphia Eagles.

The 37-year-old Retzlaff succeeds the recently fired Joe Kuharich as general manager.

His first job will be to name Kuharich's successor as coach, expected to be Jerry Williams, a onetime Eagles' star now coaching Calgary in the Canadian Football League, or Charley Gauer, a former Eagles' assistant coach.

Kuharich's 10 years remaining on a 15-year contract as general manager-coach, were bought out by new Eagles' owner Leonard Tose, Norristown, Pa. trucking executive.

Tose, who purchased the Eagles last week from Jerry Wolman for $16,155,000, is turning full operation of the Eagles over to Retzlaff, the former tight end.

The Associated Press learned Retzlaff favors Williams for the coaching job, but Calgary's board of directors has refused the Eagles permission to talk to Williams.

The board says Williams should abide by his four-year contract and remain with the Stampeders.

If Retzlaff is unable to get Williams, the prime candidate for the position is Gauer, an offensive coach with the Eagles' 1960 title team.

with 44, is off to a great start with 10 and a tie for the lead.

"Williams has that enthusiasm a club needs," he said. "He turns it on when it becomes game time and that enthusiasm has to rub off."

Hank Allen, a part-time player in 1968 who hit .219, has been among the league leaders since the start of the season, and Ed Brinkman, the veteran shortstop, hit .210 in eight seasons is 50 points higher now.

Each has been recipients of the Williams magic.

"He bubbles with enthusiasm and it's contagious," Brinkman said. "I've been on this club eight years and I've never seen this feeling. They used to go out with the idea that we'd see how we would get beat. Now we know we can win and the other club is going to have to beat us."

Youngstown Faces School Shutdown If Levy Is Nixed

By STEVE DRAKE
YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Four months after schools closed here for lack of money, Youngstown voters balloted today on a levy that officials say will determine whether classes open next fall.

It is the seventh vote on a school tax issue in 28 months. The other six failed.

This time the chance of approval was considered somewhat improved.

The rejected tax proposals precipitated a financial crisis that forced officials to close public schools to the city's 27,000 students last winter.

Mos, of the city's 42,000 registered voters are expected to vote on the 12 - mill additional operating levy. The current city school tax is 22.9 mills—$22.90 per $10,000 of assessed value on real property.

If approved, the new tax would bring in about $6 million annually in new money for education.

Public schools here had a $15 million budget in 1968, a year when school levies produced $11,165,000.

"It's going to be close again," said superintendent of schools W.W. Zinser, "I'm more hopeful for passage than in the previous elections."

"We have no operating funds for the fall. The schools will not open in September unless we get new tax millage."

Zinser added that school revenues under the present 22.3-mill rate were expected to drop about $300,000 this year, compared with 1968. He said there was a decrease in property evaluations primarily because of urban renewal projects and highway construction within the city.

Officials hope the threat of another school shutdown will override a spreading revolt against taxes.

"If the vote was only on taxes, it would be soundly defeated," says Dr. James Kiriazis, chairman of the Youngstown State University sociology department which was commissioned to study voter action in levy defeats. "The danger of the schools closing has been so widely publicized that the levy won't show the tax revolt."

"We have a solid block of voters who vote against the levy hoping to force another form of taxation," Zinser says. "But I think they are beginning to realize that we need the money—now."

Youngstown, with a population of 166,000, is highly industrialized. The school levy has gained some union support, something Zinser says it has lacked in the past six elections.

Stoutsville Council Fills Two Vacancies

Resignations of two village solons were accepted Monday night when Stoutsville council met in regular session.

Due to ill health Frank LeRoy resigned his post as mayor of the Fairfield County village. He has served as head of the governing body since January, 1969.

Glen Christy, council member, was named to fill the vacated office.

The second resignation presented to council was that of Council President Howard Houston. Due to other pressing interests, Houston left the position to which he was elected last November. He has served officially since January, 1969.

STOUTSVILLE was incorporated as a village in the spring of 1968. City officers were elected in the November voting.

David (Max) Marshall, council member, was appointed council president pro tem and Gail Goldsberry was elected as a new member of council.

In other action at the Monday meeting, it was announced that a recent survey conducted in Stoutsville disclosed that residents were not interested in becoming a part of the projected Earnhart Hill Water District.

According to council members, Stoutsville has never had a water problem so declined the offer to become a part of the new water service district.

Eyeglasses And False Teeth To Cost More In Britain

By FRED COLEMAN
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — A government decision to hike the price of eyeglasses and false teeth set off a new howl across Britain today against Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor government.

"Shock," "Revolt," "Fury" and "Body Blow" said the headlines describing the reaction among rank-and-file members of the House of Commons from Wilson's own party.

Critics recalled that Wilson himself quit Clement Attlee's government in 1951 when it decided to charge for spectacles and false teeth furnished by the National Health Service.

Members of Parliament expressed surprise at the timing of the announcement Monday—the first day of a week of local elections throughout Britain. The Labor party had been expected to lose badly, and commentators agreed the announcement could only make things worse for the government.

Early returns from the town of Kirkby in Wilson's home district, showed that voters threw out the Laborites for the first time since 1958 and installed a Liberal party council.

Health Minister Richard Crossman announced the higher charges of some 25 per cent and said they were necessary to offset an $8.4-million cut in the appropriation for the health service this year. He said if he had delayed the announcement until after the elections, he would have been accused of playing politics.

Arrest Pair For 'Holdup'

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A former bank teller and her alleged accomplice in a fake holdup at the Warrensville Heights bank where she worked were arrested Monday on a secret federal grand jury indictment returned last month.

Mrs. Angela C. Lucas, 21, of Painesville, the former teller, was released on $5,000 after appearing before U.S. District Judge Ben C. Green, who set her arraignment on an embezzlement charge for May 14.

Dennis K. Fried, 23, of Warrensville Heights, charged with bank larceny, was held in the Cuyahoga County jail in lieu of $10,000 bond.

Authorities said Mrs. Lucas handed $6,250 to a male accomplice dressed as a woman and that her elaborate plan to rob the Community National Bank might have succeeded if she hadn't waited five minutes to sound the alarm.

"That is what made the police and FBI suspicious," Asst. U.S. Atty. Harry E. Pickering said Monday. "Even so, it took nearly two years for the robbery to be solved."

Youngstown Faces School Shutdown If Levy Is Nixed

By STEVE DRAKE
YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Four months after schools closed here for lack of money, Youngstown voters balloted today on a levy that officials say will determine whether classes open next fall.

It is the seventh vote on a school tax issue in 28 months. The other six failed.

This time the chance of approval was considered somewhat improved.

The rejected tax proposals precipitated a financial crisis that forced officials to close public schools to the city's 27,000 students last winter.

Mos. of the city's 42,000 registered voters are expected to vote on the 12-mill additional operating levy. The current city school tax is 22.9 mills—$22.90 per $10,000 of assessed value on real property.

If approved, the new tax would bring in about $6 million annually in new money for education.

Public schools here had a $15 million budget in 1968, a year when school levies produced $11,165,000.

"It's going to be close again," said superintendent of schools W.W. Zinser, "I'm more hopeful for passage than in the previous elections."

"We have no operating funds for the fall. The schools will not open in September unless we get new tax millage."

Zinser added that school revenues under the present 22.3-mill rate were expected to drop about $300,000 this year, compared with 1968. He said there was a decrease in property evaluations primarily because of urban renewal projects and highway construction within the city.

Officials hope the threat of another school shutdown will override a spreading revolt against taxes.

"If the vote was only on taxes, it would be soundly defeated," says Dr. James Kiriazis, chairman of the Youngstown State University sociology department which was commissioned to study voter action in levy defeats. "The danger of the schools closing has been so widely publicized that the levy won't show the tax revolt."

"We have a solid block of voters who vote against the levy hoping to force another form of taxation," Zinser says. "But I think they are beginning to realize that we need the money—now."

Youngstown, with a population of 166,000, is highly industrialized. The school levy has gained some union support, something Zinser says it has lacked in the past six elections.
